Reds Gamble With Gene Thompson Against Gomez

Young Pitcher Carries Hopes In Third Game

Cincinnati in Frenzy as Teams Resume Fight For Title

By Lawton Carver
CINCINNATI, Oct. 7.—Gripped by a frenzy of loyalty that approached hysteria and in no way reflected the true state of affairs around here, Cincinnati's baseball fanatics trooped to Crosley Field today for the first World Series game played here since 1919, their confidence seemingly unimpaired by the plight of their beloved Reds.

Already beaten two straight by the New York Yankees in eastern encounters, the local National League pennant winners' last vestige of hope rode on young Gene Thompson, a Sully League bushy, who was opposed on the pitching mound by the ailing and unpredictable Lefty Vernon Gomez, veteran of six triumphs in a row in world championship competition.

The local customers were notoriously hilarious and everything was touched by pageantry and jubilation, although the situation actually called more for the deportment of mourners, considering that the Reds one slender chance of dethroning the Yankees was a victory behind Thompson today, with Paul Derringer, beaten hero of the opening game, rested and ready to come back tomorrow. He might win then, too, and with that even the series and put the Reds in position ultimately to score one of the biggest upsets in baseball history.

Only a Dream?
But all that seemingly must be scarcely more than a dream born of hope among the good burghers who despondently followed the Reds into the nethermost regions of baseball for so long that they are overcome now by their enthusiasm in this moment of the Reds' triumph in their own league. The point is, they've never met a team like the Yankees before.

And the chances are the windup will be reached here by Sunday, with the Yankees winners of four games and four championships in a row, or by Monday at the latest by the margin of four games to one. In that case, the Yanks still would have four straight series to their credit and the final result, therefore, would be the same only more prolonged.

LONDON—Finland's failure to join with other Baltic states in negotiating with Russia may mean trouble, the Daily Telegraph indicated today. The paper quoted the Moscow radio station as saying: "In view of the refusal of Finland to engage in conversations with Russia, the Soviet Union reserves the right to take decisions as it sees fit."

ROME—Premier Mussolini today appointed General Emilio De Bono, hero of the early days of the Ethiopian war, as inspector of Italian overseas forces.

DIES TO CHARGE REDS ACTING IN FEDERAL POSTS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The Dies committee investigating un-American activities was to decide today whether to make public a document seized in a raid on District of Columbia Communist party headquarters, allegedly disclosing Communist activities in federal departments.

Chairman Martin Dies (D) Texas, of the committee said the document, which he described as "a report to a higher-up" by Martin Chaney, Communist party secretary for the district, contained information about Communist activities in the Washington navy yard, the government printing office and several other federal agencies.

Dies asserted that Chaney identified the report as genuine, and added that it contained "a name which is very important" in connecting "various front organizations" in Washington with Communists.
Chaney, after being questioned for two hours by the committee following the raid, late yesterday declared he knew of no Communist in the federal government, and said that Dies' repeated references to large groups of Communists in the government were unfounded.

President May Discuss Nazi Request That He Take Mediator's Role

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Franklin D. Roosevelt, gentleman farmer of Hyde Park, momentarily kept his own counsel today on Chancellor Hitler's peace proposals, but there were strong indications that before he essayed the role of mediator in Europe's war he would have to have official assurances of success in advance from all concerned.

It was noted here that French Premier Daladier already had rejected Hitler's proposals while the British found two major flaws in them.

Mr. Roosevelt's efforts in the past to head off European war—particularly his dealings with Hitler, who completely ignored him—proved fruitless. It was possible he might discuss the matter informally at a press conference later today but that was not certain.

Observers held here that the British statement they considered Hitler's word to be worthless was not particularly conducive to an armistice. It was recalled however, that international politics in the past has unfolded in amazing and unexpected fashion so there was a disposition to wait a further clarification of the situation.

Aides accompanying the President here accepted as obviously inspired from the highest source German statements that the American executive has "a golden opportunity" to demonstrate his sincerity as a peace worker by proposing an armistice to the belligerents. The President is not unacquainted with the workings of diplomacy.

He said Wallace did not know about the accident at the time.

The accident was the first hunting accident reported in Pickaway County this season.

Next Few Days To Push Crisis Near Decision

Germany Has Million And Half Men In Arms On Western Front; Fuehrer's Proposals To Be Examined

BERLIN, Oct. 7.—The eyes of Germany turned from the Wilhelmstrasse to Washington and Hyde Park, N. Y., today as Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler made known he would welcome intervention by President Roosevelt in behalf of European peace.

The Fuehrer is awaiting a "clear and outspoken" answer to the peace proposals he made in his speech to the Reichstag yesterday, it was stated. So far as mediation by President Roosevelt is concerned, the German attitude was summed up in political circles as follows:

"Mr. Roosevelt previously acted on his own initiative. There is no reason now for him to hesitate even in the absence of advance assurances that Great Britain and France would lend a willing ear."

Germany paid no attention whatever to Britain's initial rejection of his peace offers in the official communique released in London last night. Anthony Eden, Britain's dominions minister, who announced in a radio broadcast last night that the war would continue, was ignored entirely.

Eden, long an arch-foe of Naziism, is not recognized in Berlin as an authoritative British spokesman.

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE
Awaiting a war of "historic" destruction which may begin within a week, France and Britain today nonetheless left the door to negotiation open the tiniest crack.

"Vague and obscure" was the term applied to Chancellor Hitler's proposal for a general peace conference, and equally "vague and obscure" was the diplomatic situation; but this fact stood out clear and foreboding:

Germany has around 1,400,000 men on the Western Front. They have been massing all along France's Maginot Line, but especially on its extremities, near the Luxembourg and Swiss frontiers.

French military authorities believe that in a week the Reich will be ready to strike, unless the diplomacy of peace can squeeze through that infinitesimal aperture left when the British and French did not slam the swinging door of negotiation.

"Funeral Oration"
Chancellor Hitler, said the London Evening Standard, has spoken his "funeral oration." But an official British communique said, "Nevertheless, Hitler's proposals will be carefully examined in consultation with the governments of the Dominions and the French Republic."

Germany looked to Washington and Rome for the next step, following Hitler's proposals for (Continued on Page Eight)

MAN SUSPECTED IN FRAUD HELD IN ILLINOIS CITY

The sheriff's department received a notification Friday evening that Melvin Patrick Gribble, of Louisville, Ky., wanted in Circleville on a charge of obtaining property by false pretenses in connection with the sale of a monument, is under arrest in Mt. Vernon, Ill.

The notification, received from the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said Gribble was arrested in Mt. Vernon on October 2 on a charge of operating a confidence game. The sheriff's department was checking with Mt. Vernon authorities Saturday to obtain some information as to whether Gribble can be returned to Circleville.

The indictment returned against Gribble charges that on August 23, 1938 he obtained property from Mrs. John Meeker, East Main Street, by false pretenses. He is charged with taking a ring valued at $10 and a watch valued at $35 in payment for a monument and never returned to redeem the merchandise or deliver the monument. The indictment (Continued on Page Eight)

HITLER MAY BE SETTING UP JEWISH RESERVATION

BERLIN, Oct. 7.—A Jewish reservation in Poland with an initial population of 3,000,000—modeled on America's Indian reservations—was envisioned today by authoritative German quarters as part of Chancellor Hitler's plan for a broad European peace settlement.

Poland's huge Jewish population would live on the reservation, Germany's Jews would be moved there, and Jews from other lands would be welcomed also, it was stated.

The proposed reservation would be larger than Palestine, it was pointed out.

Tigers Beat Greenfield, And That Rates Page One!

There's no one can deny that Circleville's defeat of Greenfield McClain is Page One news... in fact there are many persons who thought an Extra should have been published, and there were several of the city's prominent citizens who offered to take over the role of newspaper boy to sell them... Greenfield ate its 75-6 victory over the Tigers, and ate it in big chunks... Coach Red Armstrong, who started his football career as a player at Greenfield when Roy Black was mentoring Wilmington into many championships, took a roasting from the Tiger crowd as he walked dejectedly from the field... Tiger spirit was shown when Eldon Newland, brilliant McClain halfback, was carried from the field; Captain Howard Orr and Quarterback Harold Smith helped move the athlete to the sidelines... Coach Black broke out in a smile that stretched from ear to ear: "First one in two years," the coach told his boys, "and there isn't any reason why we shouldn't go on from here..." A treat at the Sandwich Grill by Dr. Joe Staley, father of injured Guard Joe Staley, was handed out, the good word going to the boys in the locker room as they changed clothing... The tipoff came that Circleville was going to be tough when Marv Jenkins fought hard the first time a Tiger carried the oval... Jenkins, bumped hard several times, was a battler of the type that couldn't be denied... Normie Anderson, his replacement, is a sophomore and a willing youngster... Answer to query: Smith and Bowsher both graduate this year, Jenkins and Eby are juniors... The game was the fourth in a row in which Bob Brown has not made a bad pass from center... Coach Black's strategy in juggling his boys at Lancaster to prevent possible injury was smart, the Greenfield game proves that point... Smith wasn't even in uniform at Lancaster and the rest he received did him plenty of good, ask Red Armstrong... Officials weren't at all partial about penalizing Circleville, the team being called once for an illegal shift, once for illegal use of hands on the offense, once for two eligible men touching a forward pass, and numerous times for off side play... Offside play doesn't make Black angry: "It shows the boys are trying to get across the line of scrimmage"; Black rubbed it in a bit when he sent Bob Moon and Carl Bach into the game; they were the tiniest men he could find on the bench... Davey Orr, still smaller, was in the band, and speaking of the band Circleville's certainly outplayed Greenfield's in even a more convincing fashion than the football team did: Just one thing, how about checking signals so that the band doesn't break in when the loud speaker is announcing lineups.

Next Few Days To Push Crisis Near Decision

Germany Has Million And Half Men In Arms On Western Front; Fuehrer's Proposals To Be Examined

BERLIN, Oct. 7.—The eyes of Germany turned from the Wilhelmstrasse to Washington and Hyde Park, N. Y., today as Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler made known he would welcome intervention by President Roosevelt in behalf of European peace.

The Fuehrer is awaiting a "clear and outspoken" answer to the peace proposals he made in his speech to the Reichstag yesterday, it was stated. So far as mediation by President Roosevelt is concerned, the German attitude was summed up in political circles as follows:

"Mr. Roosevelt previously acted on his own initiative. There is no reason now for him to hesitate even in the absence of advance assurances that Great Britain and France would lend a willing ear."

Germany paid no attention whatever to Britain's initial rejection of his peace offers in the official communique released in London last night. Anthony Eden, Britain's dominions minister, who announced in a radio broadcast last night that the war would continue, was ignored entirely.

Eden, long an arch-foe of Nazism, is not recognized in Berlin as an authoritative British spokesman.

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE
Awaiting a war of "historic" destruction which may begin within a week, France and Britain today nonetheless left the door to negotiation open the tiniest crack.

"Vague and obscure" was the term applied to Chancellor Hitler's proposal for a general peace conference, and equally "vague and obscure" was the diplomatic situation; but this fact stood out clear and foreboding:

Germany has around 1,400,000 men on the Western Front. They have been massing all along France's Maginot Line, but especially on its extremities, near the Luxembourg and Swiss frontiers.

French military authorities believe that in a week the Reich will be ready to strike, unless the diplomacy of peace can squeeze through that infinitesimal aperture left when the British and French did not slam the swinging door of negotiation.

'Funeral Oration'

Cancellor Hitler, said the London Evening Standard, has spoken his "funeral oration." But an official British communique said, "Nevertheless, Hitler's proposals will be carefully examined in consultation with the governments of the Dominions and the French Republic."

Germany looked to Washington and Rome for the next step, following Hitler's proposals for (Continued on Page Eight)

MAN SUSPECTED IN FRAUD HELD IN ILLINOIS CITY

The sheriff's department received a notification Friday evening that Melvin Patrick Gribble, of Louisville, Ky., wanted in Circleville on a charge of obtaining property by false pretenses in connection with the sale of a monument, is under arrest in Mt. Vernon, Ill.

The notification, received from the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said Gribble was arrested in Mt. Vernon on October 2 on a charge of operating a confidence game. The sheriff's department was checking with Mt. Vernon authorities Saturday to obtain some information as to whether Gribble can be returned to Circleville.

The indictment returned against Gribble charges that on August 23, 1938 he obtained property from Mrs. John Meeker, East Main Street, by false pretenses. He is charged with taking a ring valued at $10 and a watch valued at $35 in payment for a monument and never returned to redeem the merchandise or deliver the monument. The indictment (Continued on Page Eight)

HITLER MAY BE SETTING UP JEWISH RESERVATION

BERLIN, Oct. 7.—A Jewish reservation in Poland with an initial population of 5,000,000—modeled on America's Indian reservations—was envisioned today by authoritative German quarters as part of Chancellor Hitler's plan for a broad European peace settlement.

Poland's huge Jewish population would live on the reservation, Germany's Jews would be moved there, and Jews from other lands would be welcomed also, it was stated.

The proposed reservation would be larger than Palestine, it was pointed out.

Tigers Beat Greenfield, And That Rates Page One!

There's no one can deny that Circleville's defeat of Greenfield McClain is Page One news...in fact there are many persons who thought an Extra should have been published, and there were several of the city's prominent citizens who offered to take over the role of newspaper boy to sell them... Greenfield at its 75-6 victory over the Tigers, and ate it in big chunks... Coach Red Armstrong, who started his football career as a player at Greenfield when Roy Black was mentoring Wilmington into many championships, took a roasting from the Tiger crowd as he walked dejectedly from the field... Tiger spirit was shown when Eldon Newland, brilliant McClain halfback, was carried from the field; Captain Howard Orr and Quarterback Harold Smith helped move the athlete to the sidelines... Coach Black broke out in a smile that stretched from ear to ear: "First one in two years," the coach told his boys, "and there isn't any reason why we shouldn't go on from here..." A treat at the Sandwich Grill by Dr. Joe Staley, father of injured Guard Joe Staley, was handed out, the good word going to the boys in the locker room as they changed clothing... The tipoff came that Circleville was going to be tough when Mary Jenkins fought hard the first time a Tiger carried the oval... Jenkins, bumped hard several times, was a battler of the type that couldn't be denied... Normie Anderson, his replacement, is a sophomore and a willing youngster... Answer to query: Smith and Bowsher both graduate this year, Jenkins and Eby are juniors... The game was the fourth in a row in which Bob Brown has not made a bad pass from center... Coach Black's strategy in juggling his boys at Lancaster to prevent possible injury was smart, the Greenfield game proves that point... Smith wasn't even in uniform at Lancaster and the rest he received did him plenty of good, ask Red Armstrong... Officials weren't at all partial about penalizing Circleville, the team being called once for an illegal shift, once for illegal use of hands on the offense, once for two eligible men touching a forward pass, and numerous times for off side play... Offside play doesn't make Black angry: "It shows the boys are trying to get across the line of scrimmage"; Black rubbed it in a bit when he sent Bob Moon and Carl Bach into the game; they were the tiniest men he could find on the bench... Davey Orr, still smaller, was in the band, and speaking of the band Circleville's certainly outplayed Greenfield's in even a more convincing fashion than the football team did: Just one thing, how about checking signals, so that the band doesn't break in when the loud speaker is announcing lineups.

plays, Schmidt smashing over from the two. Newland's try for the extra point by a plunge was stopped.

The invaders scored again in the second period to boost the score to 12-7. Circleville had received and marched down the field to the 20 but lost the ball on downs when two passes failed to click. Greenfield started to march again and carried the ball to the Circleville 35 before a pass, Newland to Schmidt, that sucked the right side of the Tiger defense in accounted for the goal. A placekick by Orr was too low.

There were six minutes remaining in the half when Circleville received the kickoff, Smith carrying the leather back to the 28. Eby failed at the line just before Bowsher passed again to Smith in the short flat zone. The tiny speedster set out for the goal and, with Eby taking out the last man in front of him, crossed the goal line slowing down. The run had the Tiger stands in an uproar. Another pass, Bowsher to Walters, who made a beautiful reception, accounted for the extra point.

The Tigers went to their dressing room more determined than ever. There was no hilarity because the team was in the lead. Boys who had played throughout the half were given aid, their faces washed and their bumps and bruises treated. There was determination in that squad and it went to work with more zip in the second half than it showed in the first.

Orr Downs Punt

An exchange of punts preceded the Tigers' third touchdown. Circleville had received, but a penalty forced the Red and Black to punt. Acting Captain Howard Orr punting Smith's boot on the Greenfield 14. The McClain team was held after a Newland run of 30 yards and was forced to kick again. Newell downing the ball on the Red and Black 16. Jenkins broke loose for 13 to the 29, but another line play lost a yard. Here came another touchdown pass, Bowsher tossing to Smith just past the line of scrimmage and the ball carrier moving for another touchdown from the 28. The run again caused the Tiger stands to scream with excitement. A Bowsher pass to Smith was grounded for the extra point.

The Red and Black defense rose again to stop McClain and some punting developed with neither side gaining much of an edge. Penalties cut down the Tiger chances in the last period, several times gains being nullified by penalties. There were nine minutes left when Smith stopped Greenfield's last scoring attempt, a long pass, Hope to Payne. He grabbed the ball from Payne's hands on the 10 and ran back to the 43 before being stopped. Bowsher picked up two yards, then smashed for a first down on the Greenfield 46.

All four members of the backfield carried the leather for the next first down, moving the ball to the 35. Eby got 7 and Jenkins 1 before Eby dropped along the sideline for a perfect sleeper play, his teammates lining up and Bowsher firing the ball clear across the field for the touchdown. Eby was not touched by an opposing player. Walters' dropkick attempt was low and the scoring was ended.

Warner Covers Fumble

Coach Black prepared his second team to enter the game immediately after Hansel Warner, scrapping guard, covered a Greenfield fumble on the McClain 40. Geib behind the McClain secondary. The receiver had to go high for the ball and was off balance when he came down or he might have been away. On the flying legs and swaying hips of the 122-pound Harold Smith centered the praise of Circleville's fans Saturday. The young fellow scored three touchdowns on passes from Bob Bowsher, all the pegs being short ones just past the line of scrimmage with Smith getting assistance from Halfback Carl Eby, who turned in some devastating blocks downfield.

Smith's Average 17.6

Smith had his hands on the leather 15 times from scrimmage and from reception of passes. He averaged gains of 17.6 yards per try piling up 264 yards. He gained 33 additional yards after a pass interception.

The first Tiger score came after 6½ minutes of play in the first period. Greenfield had received, but failing to gain 10 yards, Newland punted to Jenkins who was downed on the Tiger 20. The Tigers started down the field with line smashes by Bowsher, Jenkins and Eby moving the ball for a first down. The ball had gone 19 yards before Smith carried it for the first time, circling the Greenfield left end for 26 yards that put the leather on the Greenfield 35.

Jenkins picked up six by driving harder than he ever did before, Bowsher got one and Eby lost one before Bowsher passed to Walters on the 13. Both sides were offside though and the gain was nullified. On the next play Bowsher passed to Smith in the flat and the quarterback dashed and swerved through the McClain defense for the touchdown. Bowsher smashed in the try for the point but was stopped. However, both teams were offside again and the play was tried over. This time Bowsher passed to Smith for the point.

Eight Plays Needed

Greenfield came right back, Newland returning the kickoff to the 45. McClain scored in eight

Duke's Rose Bowl Team, Led By Brothers McAfee, Appears Headed for Another Good Year Under Wade

George McAfee, Willard Perdue, Bill Bailey, Frank Ribar, Wes McAfee

LED BY what may turn out to be the most famous brother act in college football this year, Duke University's Blue Devils let their guard down and tasted defeat after running up nine straight wins without a loss. Five veterans of that 40-second spasm are members of the present team and they won't let the newcomers forget that half minute.

Opening with Davidson, always a good team, Duke took on Colgate at Durham before going to Pittsburgh to play the Panthers. Then follows games with Syracuse, Wake Forest, Georgia Tech, V. M. I., North Carolina and finally North Carolina State. If the Blue Devils get by the Panthers, only the Tarheels of North Carolina should give them much trouble.

From Ironton, O.

But getting back to that brother act. Both backs, the boys are George and Wesley McAfee, of Ironton, O. George, out most of last season with a foot ailment, is the quarterback and Wes, a soph last year, has been assigned the task of filling the brogans of Eric Tipton, Duke's All-American punting favorite last year.

The veterans Wade used to trim Davidson in the first game included Capt. Allen Johnson and Frank Ribar, guards; Willard Eaves, half, and ends Willard Perdue and Bill Bailey.

Johnson, nicknamed "Sweet Pea" because of his good nature, is a 195-pound leader who plays an aggressive line position. Ribar is a 190-pounder. Perdue, 195 pounds and an all-conference end last year, is the Blue Devils' hope for All-American honors.

Scoring all its touchdowns in the first two periods, Youngstown had easy sailing in snaring a 20-to-6 victory over St. Francis College.

Leeson, Sontag, Sandy and Burke made touchdowns for the Penguins. St. Francis completed 8 out of 11 passes but could not click otherwise. Marietta was pressed by Fairmont but finally emerged with a 13-12 victory. Fairmont scored on passes while the winners got the deciding touchdown on Williams' 36-yard run.

Flashing a powerhouse offensive, Findlay whitewashed Bluffton, 39 to 0.

TRICKY GEORGIA TECH OUTFIT AND NOTRE DAME VIE

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Oct. 7 — Georgia Tech which threw a terrific scare into the fighting Irish last season were primed to carry their threat a step further in the 1939 meeting between the two teams today.

A step was about all that marked the difference between victory and defeat in last year's game with Notre Dame, and Tech this year presents the same versatile backfield with a more experienced line.

Tech last year bewildered the Irish with a display of tricky football that sometimes caught their foes flat-footed and Notre Dame today was prepared to face another shifty attack from the Atlantans.

McCARTHY HURLS GOMEZ; EL GOOF LIKES NATIONAL

By Bill Corum

CINCINNATI, Oct. 7 — That man McCarthy has no heart; here he is, at the last minute, switching around and tossing the one and only (thank goodness!) Lefty Gomez at our hapless Reds.

Now, this Gomez guy is well and unfavorably known in our set as a National League nemesis. In six World Series and two all-star games, he has come up with eight victories. Which must be at least par for the course. Besides which, the man is hip on the subject. He's a sadist. He likes to beat the National League.

You might think there would be some mercy in his heart. But no, what does he say to me only the other morning in the Yankee offices? He says:

"I hope McCarthy doesn't keep me out of there just because I have got a slight wrench of the muscles of my right side. What difference does it make? I'm a left-hander, am I not?"

"You talk like one," I agreed. "Well," he continued, "pitching against the National League is a lot of fun. I've always enjoyed it, and I think there's at least one more victory in the old gentleman."

McKeechne and his men will see about that this afternoon. Gomez already holds the record for successive series victories. So one little licking wouldn't do him any harm.

But what I'm getting at is that McCarthy must shove him right in there today, when he could just as well hold him over until tomorrow and give us our innings at Oral Hildebrand. Not that Oral is necessarily a soft one. He simply sounds easier. And if Gomez wins today, McCarthy might come right back with Ruffing tomorrow and mop up the trenches immediately. It's unconstitutional, that's what it is.

TWO OF STRONG TEAMS TANGLE AT DYCHE FIELD

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 7 — One of the strongest teams in the country last season runs up against a favorite in the 1939 national campaign when Oklahoma and Northwestern tangle at Dyche stadium today.

Unbeaten in its last 16 scheduled starts, Oklahoma brings a veteran line and an inexperienced backfield against exactly the same setup at Northwestern.

In sophomore Jack Jacobs, the Sooners are said to possess a potential star, equal at least to the highly touted Bill De Correvont of the Wildcats, who will make his sophomore debut today.

A crowd of 45,000 was predicted.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

AT CHICAGO — Sunny Angott, Chicago (133), beat Davey Day, Chicago (134½) — 10.
Eddie Dempsey, Chicago featherweight and Leone Efrati of Italy, drew (10).

plays, Schmidt smashing over from the two. Newland's try for the extra point by a plunge was stopped.

The invaders scored again in the second period to boost the score to 12-7. Circleville had received and marched down the field to the 20 but lost the ball on downs when two passes failed to click. Greenfield started to march again and carried the ball to the Circleville 35 before a pass, Newland to Schmidt, that sucked the right side of the Tiger defense in accounted for the goal. A placekick by Orr was too low.

There were six minutes remaining in the half when Circleville received the kickoff, Smith carrying the leather back to the 28. Eby failed at the line just before Bowsher passed again to Smith in the short flat zone. The tiny speedster set out for the goal and, with Eby taking out the last man in front of him, crossed the goal line slowing down. The run had the Tiger stands in an uproar. Another pass, Bowsher to Walters, who made a beautiful reception, accounted for the extra point.

The Tigers went to their dressing room more determined than ever. There was no hilarity because the team was in the lead. Boys who had played throughout the half were given aid, their faces washed and their bumps and bruises treated. There was determination in that squad and it went to work with more zip in the second half than it showed in the first.

Orr Downs Punt

An exchange of punts preceded the Tigers' third touchdown. Circleville had received, but a penalty forced the Red and Black to punt. Acting Captain Howard Orr downing Smith's boot on the Greenfield 14. The McClain team was held after a Newland run of 30 yards and was forced to kick again. Nevell downing the ball on the Red and Black 16. Jenkins broke loose for 13 to the 29, but another line play lost a yard. Here came another touchdown pass, Bowsher tossing to Smith just past the line of scrimmage and the ball carrier moving for another touchdown from the 28. The run again caused the Tiger stands to scream with excitement. A Bowsher pass to Smith was grounded for the extra point.

The Red and Black defense rose again to stop McClain and some punting developed with neither side gaining much of an edge.

Penalties cut down the Tiger chances in the last period, several times gains being nullified by penalties. There were nine minutes left when Smith stopped Greenfield's last scoring attempt, a long pass. Hope to Payne. He grabbed the ball from Payne's hands on the 10 and ran back to the 43 before being stopped. Bowsher picked up two yards, then smashed for a first down on the Greenfield 46.

All four members of the backfield carried the leather for the next first down, moving the ball to the 35. Eby got 7 and Jenkins 1 before Eby dropped along the side line for a perfect sleeper play, his teammates lining up and Bowsher firing the ball clear across the field for the touchdown. Eby was not touched by an opposing player. Walters' dropkick attempt was low and the scoring was ended.

Warner Covers Fumble

Coach Black prepared his second team to enter the game immediately after Hansel Warner, scrapping guard, covered a Greenfield fumble on the McClain 40 but two quick penalties carried the ball far back into Circleville territory. Smith punted to the McClain 24 and then knocked down three passes before Greenfield punted again. Circleville taking the partially blocked ball on the McClain 44. Then the second team entered.

Callahan and Sowers picked up 11 with a five yard offside penalty sandwiched in between before Geib passed to Thompson who advanced to the Greenfield 13 on the play. Two more passes missed connection by inches and the game ended with the ball in Circleville territory.

Bedlam broke loose as the timbers of the stadium shook.

Circleville gained 10 first downs to Greenfield's 14; the Tigers were penalized 100 yards on 12 violations. Greenfield losing 20 yards on two penalties.

Heroes were many in the Tiger lineup. Walters, Liston, Warner, Brown, Martin and Sabine playing the entire game until Black sent in the seconds with two minutes remaining. Jenkins, who played by far the best game of his career, was the only backfield man replaced before the last two minutes. Anderson, a sophomore, took over his spot twice when the driving ball carrier was hurt. Bowsher's passing and line backing, Smith's running and team direction, hard driving by Eby and Jenkins, and the play of the entire line brought joy to the hearts of the Circleville school and fans.

Best, Pollard, who is a cousin of coach Roy Black, was best in the Greenfield line.

Next week Circleville plays at Frankfort in a non-league game, scheduled at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Duke's Rose Bowl Team, Led By Brothers McAfee, Appears Headed for Another Good Year Under Wade

LED BY what may turn out to be the most famous brother act in college football this year, Duke University's Blue Devils have again bid for national honors with a fine team coached by

Walace Wade, Rose Bowl veteran. For 40 seconds last January 1 the Duke Blue Devils led their guard down and tasted defeat after running up nine straight wins without a loss. Five veterans of that 40-second spasm are members of the present team and they won't let the newcomers forget that half minute.

Opening with Davidson, always a good team, Duke took on Colgate at Durham before going to Pittsburgh to play the Panthers. Then follows games with Syracuse, Wake Forest, Georgia Tech, V. M. I., North Carolina and finally North Carolina State. If the Blue Devils get by the Panthers, only the Tarheels of North Carolina should give them much trouble.

From Ironton, O.

But getting back to that brother act. Both backs, the boys are George and Wesley McAfee, of Ironton, O. George, out most of last season with a foot ailment, is the quarterback and Wes, a soph last year, has been assigned the task of filling the brogans of Eric Tipton, Duke's All-American punting favorite last year.

The veterans Wade used to trim Davidson in the first game included Capt. Allen Johnson and Frank Ribar, guards; Willard Eaves, half, and ends Willard Perdue and Bill Bailey.

Johnson, nicknamed "Sweet Pea" because of his good nature, is a 195-pound leader who plays an aggressive line position. Ribar is a 190-pounder. Perdue, 195 pounds and an all-conference end last year, is the Blue Devils' hope for All-American honors.

BIMELECH AND ANDY K LIKED IN BELMONT GO

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Bimelech and Andy K. will shoulder top weights of 126 pounds today to try to capture the $75,000 Belmont Futurity.

The Futurity is the richest race in the world for young horses. Ideal fall weather was predicted for the race with a fast track. Bimelech, star performer of the E. R. Bradley stable was the favorite, especially if the track remains dry but Andy K. was favored in the event of rain as he is considered a superior mudder.

Five other horses will face the barrier with John Hay Whitney's Calory and Marshall Field's Barnet considered best of the long shots. Call to Colors, Rollo and Ekwanok complete the field.

Bailey, 199-pounder, is a pass snatcher. Eaves is the blocking back. He calls the signals.

The McAfees take over two posts in the backfield. Steve Lash, sparkplug of the 1938 frosh, looked good against Davidson. Roger Robinson, who subbed for Bob O'Mara at the plugging post last year, does the fullbacking.

Ruffa in Line

The tackles are Tony Ruffa, a good kicker whose three points in the Rose Bowl game this year almost turned the trick, and Alex Winterson, rugged substitute last year.

Gordon Burns, understudy to All-American Dan Hill, does the centering. He was a letterman as a soph in 1937, but was kept out of action by Hill's fine play last season.

Duke presents a very heavy team, but Wallace Wade may do a bit of experimenting before the club gets going to the hilt.

FRANKFORT '11' EDGED 32-0 BY HILLSBORO TEAM

Frankfort, Circleville's next opponent on the gridiron, lost a 32-0 game Friday night to Hillsboro, another Tiger foe at a later date.

Hillsboro used an open attack to overcome the Frankfort boys. The Circleville game will be played at 3 o'clock in the afternoon on the Frankfort field.

Bremen, Pumpkin Show foe of the Tiger, won from the Ohio School of the Deaf, 6-0.

Washington C. H. and Wilmington, South Central Ohio League foes of the Red and Black, fought hard with the Fayette boys gaining a 7-6 margin in the last period. Spetnagle's punting featured for Washington while Jones' running was Wilmington's biggest threat.

Lancaster, victor last week over Circleville, 51-0, was held to a tie by Coshocton.

McCARTHY HURLS GOMEZ; EL GOOF LIKES NATIONAL

By Bill Córnum

CINCINNATI, Oct. 7 — That man McCarthy has no heart; here he is, at the last minute, switching around and tossing the one and only (thank goodness!) Lefty Gomez at our hapless Reds.

Now, this Gomez guy is well and unfavorably known in our set as a National League nemesis. In six World Series and two all-star games, he has come up with eight victories. Which must be at least par for the course. Besides which, the man is hipped on the subject. He's a sadist. He likes to beat the National League.

You might think there would be some mercy in his heart. But no, what does he say to me only the other morning in the Yankee offices? He says:

"I hope McCarthy doesn't keep me out of there just because I have got a slight wrench of the muscles of my right side. What difference does it make? I'm a left-hander, am I not?"

"You talk like one," I agreed. "Well," he continued, "pitching against the National League is a lot of fun. I've always enjoyed it, and I think there's at least one more victory in the old gentleman."

McKechie and his men will see about that this afternoon. Gomez already holds the record for successive series victories. So one little licking wouldn't do him any harm.

But what I'm getting at is that McCarthy must shove him right in there today, when he could just as well hold him over until tomorrow and give us our innings at Oral Hildebrand. Not that Oral is necessarily a soft one. He simply sounds easier. And if Gomez wins today, McCarthy might come right back with Ruffing tomorrow and mop up the trenches immediately. It's unconstitutional, that's what it is.

TWO OF STRONG TEAMS TANGLE AT DYCHE FIELD

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 7 — One of the strongest teams in the country last season runs up against a favorite in the 1939 national campaign when Oklahoma and Northwestern tangle at Dyche stadium today.

Unbeaten in its last 16 scheduled starts, Oklahoma brings a veteran line and an inexperienced backfield against exactly the same setup at Northwestern.

In sophomore Jack Jacobs, the Sooners are said to possess a potential star, equal at least to the highly touted Bill DeCorrevont of the Wildcats, who will make his sophomore debut today.

A crowd of 45,000 was predicted.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matthew 3.

The common people followed John the Baptist from Jerusalem to the banks of the river Jordan to be baptized by him.

The Pharisees and Sadducees also came, but John told them not to think themselves safe for they must repent of their sins.

Jesus also came to John to be baptized, and John at first refused, until Jesus said, "I have need to be baptized of thee."

As Jesus stepped from the water, the heavens opened and a voice said, "This is My Beloved Son in whom I am well pleased."

"Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make His paths straight."—Matthew 3:3.

The Forerunner of the King

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Newman Campbell
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for October 8 is Matthew 3. The Golden Text being Matthew 3:3. "Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make His paths straight.")

JOHN THE BAPTIST, who is the subject of today's lesson, is a unique character in the chronicle of the Bible. When he began preaching some thought him the Messiah, but he said, "No I am not the Christ." And they asked him, "What then? Art thou Elias?" And he said, "I am not." "Art thou that prophet?" And he answered, "No."

Then they asked, "Who art thou?" And John said, "I am the voice of one crying in the wilderness. Make straight the way of the Lord, as said the prophet Elias."

Further John said: "I baptize with water; but there standeth one among you, whom ye know not; He it is, who coming after me is preferred before me, whose shoe's latchet I am not worthy to unloose."

Like the prophets of the Old Testament John the Baptist dared tell those in power of their sins. The common people loved him and followed him out of Jerusalem to the east shore of the Jordan River, and he baptized them therein. The Pharisees and Sadducees also came to him to be baptized and when he saw them he called them names and told them to repent, for although they were the sons of Abraham they could not be saved except they did what was right.

John was said to be the fulfillment of an old prophecy in which the Lord said: "Behold, I will send my messenger, and he shall prepare the way before me." (Malachi 3:1.)

Jesus came to John and asked to be baptized. John was reluctant saying, "I have need to be baptized by Thee, and comest Thou to me?"

Jesus answered "Suffer it to be so now; for thus it becometh us to fulfill all righteousness." So John baptized Christ.

"And Jesus, when He was baptized, went up straightway out of the water and lo, the heavens opened unto Him, and He saw the Spirit of God descending like a dove, and lighting upon Him. And lo, a voice from heaven, saying: 'This is my Beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.'"

Baptism, as given by John meant that the person baptized repented of his sins and would henceforth live a good life. John could see no reason why Jesus would need baptism, as He had no sins to repent.

We do not know, either, why Jesus felt He must be baptized by John, but it is sufficient that He did. After His baptism and the voice, the account says the Spirit drove Him into the wilderness, where He stayed for 40 days and was tempted by Satan; and was with wild beasts. But the angels ministered to Him.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matthew 3.

The common people followed John the Baptist from Jerusalem to the banks of the river Jordan to be baptized by him.

The Pharisees and Sadducees also came, but John told them not to think themselves safe for they must repent of their sins.

Jesus also came to John to be baptized, and John at first refused, until Jesus said, "I have need to be baptized of thee."

As Jesus stepped from the water, the heavens opened and a voice said, "This is My Beloved Son in whom I am well pleased."

(GOLDEN TEXT—Matthew 3:3.)

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Newman Campbell
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for October 8 is Matthew 3. The Golden Text being Matthew 3:3. "Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make His paths straight.")

JOHN THE BAPTIST, who is the subject of today's lesson, is a unique character in the chronicle of the Bible. When he began preaching some thought him the Messiah, but he said, "No I am not the Christ." And they asked him, "What then? Art thou Elias?" And he said, "I am not." "Art thou that prophet?" And he answered, "No."

Then they asked, "Who art thou?" And John said, "I am the voice of one crying in the wilderness. Make straight the way of the Lord, as said the prophet Elias."

Further John said: "I baptize with water; but there standeth one among you, whom ye know not. He it is, who coming after me, is preferred before me, whose shoe's latchet I am not worthy to unloose."

THE POWERFUL DEMOCRACIES

HERBERT HOOVER'S opinion that the imperial democracies of Britain and France cannot be defeated by the totalitarian states is reassuring. He has broad and deep knowledge of European conditions and is presumably as well qualified to speak on this subject as any American.

He points out that the democratic allies have five times the naval strength of Germany, and they would be nearly four to one against a naval coalition of Germany, Italy and Russia.

The dictators are already driven from the sea.

Italy seems to be out of the war. Russia may not really enter; and if she did, Russian troops would probably never reach the western front.

The allied empires "can put more men on the front and support them better than the Germans."

Britain and France exceed in manpower and material resources any strength that might be brought against them. They are far stronger now than they were at the beginning of the last war; and Germany is weaker, especially on the economic front.

They have more ample supplies of essential war materials than the Germans. They command the sea, and that is a factor which has never failed to win. Financially they have billions of reserve assets.

All of which facts, as Mr. Hoover remarks, afford good reason why we Americans should keep cool. Not only should we keep out of the war for our own interest, he believes, but we are not needed as participants. We can wait for the democracies to win and then help them in the reconstruction.

DOGS FOR INDEPENDENCE

THE SEEING EYE dogs that guide blind persons safely about city streets do more than safeguard their masters. They help to make possible their owners' self-support.

Three-fourths of the dog-led blind attend college, or run households, or are employed in full-time jobs. Among them are salesmen, operators of merchandise stands, workers in hand industry, home teachers and proprietors of small businesses. A higher percentage of them is employed than of the adult population as a whole.

World At A Glance

WASHINGTON newspaper and business men contemplate taking advantage of a provision of the United States constitution which has lain dormant for many a year to launch an enterprise (contingent upon Uncle Sam's ultimate participation in the pending European conflict) that bids fair to make the war profiteers of 1914-18 look like pikers.

Article 2, section 8 and paragraph 11 of the constitution provides that:

"Congress shall have power to declare war, to grant letters of marque and reprisal," et cetera.

That is to say, when Uncle Sam is at war private American ship owners constitutionally can be authorized to prey, with their own craft, upon enemy vessels or upon neutral contraband carriers on the high seas, and realize financially upon their seizure for their personal benefit.

This business sounds a good deal like piracy.

Nevertheless, it's internationally legal. The crew of a privateer, as such raiders once were known, rates like the crew of any man-of-war. Captured, its members are war prisoners, but nothing worse than that—not if they're duly accredited privateersmen by their home government. Of course, a privateer can properly be sunk, same as any warship. And it's all right for the enemy to kill its personnel in action.

Nor do I intend that a bunch of privateersmen, if caught, would be likely to receive much consideration—but, under international law, they're entitled to the same treatment as any other war prisoners.

IN DANIEL WEBSTER'S DAY

America's last letters of marque and reprisal were issued in 1851 and were signed by Secretary of State Daniel Webster. It was when Maximilian was just butting into Mexico. The expected emergency didn't develop, so the authorization lapsed, but we'd done considerable privateering earlier than that.

And the system's as Americanly constitutional today as ever it was—provided congress votes to put it into effect.

Accordingly Homer Dodge and Aled Davies, a couple of Washington journalists, have formed a limited partnership to ask for letters of marque and reprisal and when the United States declares war against any foreign country or if and when any foreign country declares war against us.

The partnership's plan contemplates the use of a submarine, to catch enemy merchantmen and contraband-carrying neutrals—taking captured craft into American ports, into allied ports or into neutral ports, where they can be verified as the capturers' property before prize courts. Ridiculous? Maybe so, but it's constitutional.

INTO THE MILLIONS

It is pointed out that the German liner Bremen had she been overhauled by a privateer, would have been worth around $25,000,000 to her captors. The smallest tanker, the most insignificant ocean-going cargo boat, would be worth big money.

BRASS RING TO HIRAM JOHNSON

WASHINGTON — For four decades Hiram Johnson has been a great public figure.

He sat for 22 years in the United States Senate, usually a battler for lost and liberal causes. He was a crusading Governor of California. He ran for Vice President of the United States with Teddy Roosevelt on the Bull Moose ticket. And in younger days he waged incessant warfare against the big utilities of California.

Yet now, in what should be the crowning years of his life, Hiram Johnson remains uncrowned.

Still respected, still feared, he remains a great public figure, and still a battler. But his battles have changed.

Near the close of the last congressional session, the press ticker carried the following report on the Senate debate:

"A fiery battle broke over a resolution to provide an additional $50,000 to complete current investigations by the LaFollette Civil Liberties Committee into the operations of Associated Farmers, Inc. of California and other organizations on the West Coast. Senator Johnson led the attack on the LaFollette Committee."

These two sentences measure the transformation of Hiram Johnson. He entered public life as a great crusader against corrupt and terroristic elements. As a young attorney in California he took delight in attacking just such organizations as the Associated Farmers. But now in the crowning years of his career he becomes the defender of vigilantes and a croaker against another young crusader for waging the same kind of campaign as he did.

FIGHTING JOHNSONS

To understand Hiram Johnson you have to know that he would rather fight than do any other thing under the sun. And to understand why he would rather fight you have to diagnose Hiram's background.

He comes from a family of fighters. Early in life he and his brother and their father, Grove L. Johnson, formed the law firm of Johnson, Johnson and Johnson. These three strong-willed men pulled apart more often than they pulled together.

Once a case was tried in Sacramento in which Hiram's brother represented one side and the father the other side. But Grove (the father) did not show up when the case was called and the judge, somewhat impatiently, called the case a second time. "Does anyone know who is counsel for the estate?"

Hiram's brother rose and said, "Yes, Your Honor, he is a man who has the poor grace to be called Grove L. Johnson."

Hiram opposed his father to such an extent that they split wide open on the Southern Pacific issue, Hiram leading a furious popular uprising against the rail-

Discussing 'You and Heredity'

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

DISCUSSING further the book called YOU AND HEREDITY, by Amram Scheinfeld and Dr. Morton D. Schweitzer (Frederick A. Stokes Co., New York), there is a special element called the X chromosome, which enters into the development of any animal, including the human animal. The female adds two of these X chromosomes, the male only one.

There is another peculiar chromosome called the Y, which is present only in the male element. The Y is much smaller than the X, and in some diseases the male X chromosome carries diseases which are called, for this reason, sex-linked.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

These diseases occur almost exclusively in men because in women the extra X chromosome blocks the other one. The Y chromosome is much shorter and does not block the X chromosome which carries the disease.

One of these diseases is color blindness; another is the bleeding sickness which carried off the young czar, prince of Russia, and the son of the king of Spain.

Baldness is a sex-linked, inherited characteristic, occurring exclusively in men. Complete baldness in women is almost never seen.

There are three special forms of inherited baldness patterns: (1) The kind which is over the whole top of the head; if a man of this kind happens to inherit it from both sides of the family, all of his sons will be bald. (2) The baldness starting at the temples and moving backwards in two bays over the ears; it is less likely to be hereditary. (3) The baldness starting at the center of the crown; this is an inherited baldness pattern, but it may not be so likely to produce baldness in the children.

Musical talent is particularly likely to be inherited. Among 36 outstanding instrumental musicians of the world; the average age at which talent was expressed was under five. Their professional debuts were made at the average age of 13. Among their families, half the mothers were reported as having unusual musical talent, and three-quarters of the fathers were musical or professional musicians; several, such as the father of Dvorak, were of outstanding musical talent. Half the brothers and sisters had musical talent and were concert artists of note.

Of 36 Metropolitan Opera singers, the average age at which training was begun was eight. The age of the professional debut is somewhat later in these than in the instrumentalists on account of the vocal changes that occur at puberty; it was 15½ for the women and 17½ for the men.

As in the case of the instrumentalists, a large number of mothers and fathers of the opera singers were decidedly talented in music, many of them professionally.

STYLOSIS

Guests at Hill House, a New England summer resort, are amazed when Dr. Paul Rutherford tells them his mother has been poisoned by a small drink of whiskey he thinks was intended for him. Among them are Sally Gordon, spending her first vacation there; her close friends, Rhoda and her dance, Duncan; Dr. Paul's sister, Pauline; Coral Easton, Bruce Orton, Joseph Barry and Dr. Neal Peake and Josie Peake, children of Mrs. Peake, the proprietor. Not long after Josie discovers that someone has tampered with her room, she confides to Sally that she is worried and tells her all about "the spite force," erected near Hill House by Miss Ivy Newcomb, estranged sister of Mrs. Peake. Josie is friendly with Alan Murray, who lives at Miss Ivy's, and that infuriates her brother, Neal. He likes Coral Easton, for whom Josie has no use. A dense fog settles around Hill House as some of the guests discuss the poisoning of Mrs. Rutherford.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

WHEN JOSIE asked if he had seen her mother, Rhoda answered quickly: "Yes. She went out the terrace door just about ten minutes ago. Before you came back," to Neal.

"You didn't meet her?" Josie asked her brother.

"No, but you can hardly see anything out now, it is so thick. Is there anything I can do, Josie?"

"Perhaps I'm working on the accounts; there's something I don't understand. I've been waiting for mother. She said she'd meet me in the office at 8:30 and it's after nine now."

"Maybe she's over at the Rutherford's cottage," I suggested.

"She may be, at that. I didn't go in, just walked to the door with Pauline. Want me to see if she's there?" Neal rose from his chair.

"No, thanks, I'll go over myself. It will give me a breath of air. Even a half hour with those confounded figures gives me the willies in this weather."

"Wait a while and I'll go over with you," Neal offered, re-seating himself.

A joyful smile lighted Josie's face. "Oh, Neal, will you? I do hate figures so."

"I will. Run along and find mother and I'll be ready to help when you come back."

As soon as Josie went out, Neal turned back to Duncan. "You don't approve of Paul's decision, do you?"

"No," replied Duncan frankly, "I don't. But it is his business, or yours and his so, if you both agree, it is nothing in my young life."

"I don't know that I do exactly agree," conceded Neal. "But Paul worries so over his mother, that I yielded the point to help him out."

"Is she very sickly?" asked Rhoda. "She seemed strong enough last year."

"I've never examined her," Neal said slowly, "but Paul told me her heart is bad. So had she'll go out like a light some day. That's why he was so terrified the other night. He does everything he can for her, and Pauline doesn't know what I've told you, so be careful what you say to her. I wouldn't have told you that, as we're all in this together, I feel you are entitled to know the truth."

"Personally," he went on as though thinking aloud, "I don't believe it does anyone any good to be fussed over continually and shielded from every trivial irritation. But, perhaps, I would feel just as Paul does, if it were my mother."

"Are you going to turn Tinker loose?" asked Rhoda.

"I don't dare," confessed Neal. "If Sally," with a grin at me, "or Coral could be about all night, I'd do it like a shot; but I don't dare take a chance with so many persons roaming around. The house will be full in a day or so."

"Then as far as I can see you're at a standstill," Dunc said gravely. "Of course we can all keep an eye open, but as we don't know what we're looking for, it won't do much good."

Words of Wisdom

The souls of men of undecided and feeble purpose are the graveyards of good intentions.

Today's Horoscope

The signs for the twelve months are somewhat adverse for those whose birthday is today. They are warned to guard against deception and quarrels. Before the year ends, however, a happy romance will bring them joy. If born in the morning, a child will be of a somewhat dreamy nature. If born later in the day, however, he will be cheerful, but extravagant, and possess a somewhat unruly nature.

Hints on Etiquette

More of a bore than those who talk all the time, is the one who never has a word to say for himself. Be observant, read and try to cultivate an easy conversational manner.

Horoscope for Sunday

The year is somewhat adverse for those who have birthdays on this date. They are warned of deception and sharp practice, against which they should be on their guard. The child born today will be self-reliant, confident, frank, sincere and honorable, especially if born before noon. If born in the afternoon he will be refined and girl's as level-headed as any I've seen in a long time. I'd say your friend Paul is straining at gnats and swallowing mountains when he refuses to tell Coral Easton the truth because it would make her nervous; and on top of that he refuses to call in real help to prevent any such thing happening again."

"Paul's a very good doctor, Dunc," Neal said gravely. "If he thinks it best not to tell her, I agree."

"Oh, heavens, Neal, I didn't mean to tread on your toes and, of course, if Paul says the girl is nervous, I suppose she is. I'll take his word for that. But—if she is so nervous, how come she wants to stay in a cottage by herself? Not many nervous persons would want to do that."

Neal only shook his head, expressing his own inability to answer Duncan's remarks. I was sure he was puzzled and worried by Duncan's outspoken criticism of Coral and Dr. Paul. Poor Neal. If he really were in love with Coral, his life wasn't all roses, that is sure.

"Mother's not at the Rutherford's cottage." It was Josie's voice which roused me from my thoughts. "I can't think where she can be. She so seldom leaves the place without telling me first, in case I should need her and want to send for her."

"Did you look in the kitchen?" asked Neal.

"Yes, before I came in here the first time. Neal, I'm scared. So many queer things have happened lately."

"Nonsense, sis," Neal's voice held a bantering note. "I'll make the rounds and find her for you. She's probably in one of the cottages talking to someone."

Neal didn't seem at all uneasy over his mother's absence. Probably it was all foolishness, Josie being so worked up, but I could understand how she felt. I would have been the same.

"Let's all go look," suggested Duncan. "That is, Josie, if you really are uneasy."

"Oh, I suppose I'm playing the baby as Pauline did last night. But I keep thinking—suppose something has happened to her—as it did to—Mrs. Rutherford?"

"Come on," Duncan rose quickly. "I'll go outside with Neal. You girls go over the house and we'll meet here again as quickly as we can."

Josie leading the way, we went into every room in the main house, wings and kitchen all. We looked into every closet, peered into every closet. Josie's nervousness communicated itself to Rhoda and me. We were both expecting the worst. I can't explain why, but I was, and Rhoda told me later she felt the same way. When our tour

THE POWERFUL DEMOCRACIES

HERBERT HOOVER'S opinion that the imperial democracies of Britain and France cannot be defeated by the totalitarian states is reassuring. He has broad and deep knowledge of European conditions and is presumably as well qualified to speak on this subject as any American.

He points out that the democratic allies have five times the naval strength of Germany, and they would be nearly four to one against a naval coalition of Germany, Italy and Russia.

The dictators are already driven from the sea.

Italy seems to be out of the war. Russia may not really enter; and if she did, Russian troops would probably never reach the western front.

The allied empires "can put more men on the front and support them better than the Germans."

Britain and France exceed in manpower and material resources any strength that might be brought against them. They are far stronger now than they were at the beginning of the last war; and Germany is weaker, especially on the economic front.

They have more ample supplies of essential war materials than the Germans. They command the sea, and that is a factor which has never failed to win. Financially they have billions of reserve assets.

All of which facts, as Mr. Hoover remarks, afford good reason why we Americans should keep cool. Not only should we keep out of the war for our own interest, he believes, but we are not needed as participants. We can wait for the democracies to win and then help them in the reconstruction.

DOGS FOR INDEPENDENCE

THE SEEING EYE dogs that guide blind persons safely about city streets do more than safeguard their masters. They help to make possible their owners' self-support.

Three-fourths of the dog-led blind attend college, or run households, or are employed in full-time jobs. Among them are salesmen, operators of merchandise stands, workers in hand industry, home teachers and proprietors of small businesses. A higher percentage of them is employed than of the adult population as a whole.

World At A Glance

WASHINGTON newspaper and business men contemplate taking advantage of a provision of the United States constitution which has lain dormant for many a year to launch an enterprise (contingent upon Uncle Sam's ultimate participation in the pending European conflict) that bids fair to make the war profiteers of 1914-18 look like pikers.

Article 2, section 8 and paragraph 11 of the constitution provides that:

"Congress shall have power to declare war, to grant letters of marque and reprisal," et cetera.

That is to say, when Uncle Sam is at war private American ship owners constitutionally can be authorized to prey, with their own craft, upon enemy vessels or upon neutral contraband carriers on the high seas, and realize financially upon their seizure for their personal benefit.

This business sounds a good deal like piracy.

Nevertheless, it's internationally legal. The crew of a privateer, as such raiders once were known, rates like the crew of any man-of-war. Captured, its members are war prisoners, but nothing worse than that—not if they're duly accredited privateersmen by their home government. Of course, a privateer can properly be sunk, same as any warship. And it's all right for the enemy to kill its personnel in action. Nor do I intend that a bunch of privateersmen, if caught, would be likely to receive much consideration—but, under international law, they're entitled to the same treatment as any other war prisoners.

IN DANIEL WEBSTER'S DAY

America's last letters of marque and reprisal were issued in 1851 and were signed by Secretary of State Daniel Webster. It was when Maximilian was butting into Mexico. The expected emergency didn't develop, so the authorization lapsed, but we'd done considerable privateering earlier than that.

SYNOPSIS

Guests at Hill House, a New England summer resort, are amazed when Dr. Paul Rutherford tells them that he has been poisoned by a small drink of whiskey he thinks was intended for him. Among them are Sally Gordon, spending her first vacation there; her close friends, Rhoda and her fiancé, Duncan; Dr. Paul's sister, Pauline; Coral Easton, Bruce Orton, Joseph Barry and Dr. Neal Peake and Joie Peake, children of Mrs. Peake, the proprietor. Not long after Joie discovers that someone has ransacked her room, she confides to Sally that she is worried and tells her all about "the spite fence," erected near Hill House by Miss Ivy Newcomb, estranged sister of Mrs. Peake. Joie is friendly with Alan Murray, who lives at Miss Ivy's, and that infuriates her brother, Neal. He likes Coral Easton, for whom Joie has no use. A dense fog settles around Hill House as some of the guests discuss the poisoning of Mrs. Rutherford.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

WHEN JOSIE asked if we had seen her mother, Rhoda answered quickly: "Yes. She went out the terrace door just about ten minutes ago. Before you came back," to Neal.

"You didn't meet her?" Josie asked her brother.

"No, but you can hardly see anything out now, it is so thick. Is there anything I can do, Josie?"

"Perhaps I'm working on the accounts; there's something I don't understand. I've been waiting for mother. She said she'd meet me in the office at 8:30 and it's after nine now."

"Maybe she's over at the Rutherford's cottage," I suggested.

"She may be, at that. I didn't go in, just walked to the door with Pauline. Want me to see if she's there?" Neal rose from his chair.

"No, thanks, I'll go over myself. It will give me a breath of air. Even a half hour with those confounded figures gives me the willies in this weather."

"Wait a while and I'll go over them with you," Neal offered, re-seating himself.

A joyful smile lighted Josie's face. "Oh, Neal, will you? I do hate figures so."

"I will run along and find mother and I'll be ready to help when you come back."

As soon as Josie went out, Neal turned back to Duncan. "You don't approve of Paul's decision, do you?"

"No," replied Duncan frankly, "I don't. But it is his business, or yours and his, so, you've got to agree, it is nothing in my young life."

"I don't know that I do exactly agree," conceded Neal. "But Paul worries so over his mother, that I yielded the point to help him out."

"Is she very sickly?" asked Rhoda. "She seemed strong enough last year."

"I've never examined her," Neal said slowly. "But Paul told me her heart is bad. So bad she'll go out like a light some day. That's why he was so terrified the other night. He does everything he can for her, and Pauline doesn't know what I've told you, so be careful what you say to her. I wouldn't have told you but, as we're all in this together, I feel you are entitled to know the truth."

"Personally," he went on as though thinking aloud, "I don't believe it does anyone any good to be fussed over continually and shielded from every trivial irritation. But, perhaps, I would feel just as Paul does, if it were my mother."

"Are you going to turn Tinker loose?" asked Rhoda.

"I don't dare," confessed Neal. "If Sally," with a grin at me, "or I could be about all night, I'd do it like a shot; but I don't dare take a chance with so many persons roaming around. The house will be full in a day or so."

"Then as far as I can see you're at a standstill," Duncan said gravely. "Of course we can all keep an eye open, but as we don't know what we're looking for, it won't do much good."

"I asked Coral if she would move into the house. I used the prowler as a pretext. She doesn't know about the poisoning. I thought she could go into the wing with Sally, but she flatly refused. Said she would rather go home if she couldn't stay in the cottage. I couldn't say any more, as Paul had particularly told me not to tell her what happened last night."

"Why?" asked Rhoda bluntly.

"He thinks she has a very nervous, high-strung temperament and the knowledge would frighten and worry her."

"Bosh!" snorted Duncan. "That's all."

Words of Wisdom

The souls of men of undecided and feeble purpose are the graveyards of good intentions.

Today's Horoscope

The signs for the twelve months are somewhat adverse for those whose birthday is today. They are warned to guard against deception and quarrels. Before the year ends, however, a happy romance will bring them joy. If born in the morning, a child will be of a somewhat dreamy nature. If born later in the day, however, he will be cheerful, but extravagant, and possess a somewhat unruly nature.

Hints on Etiquette

More of a bore than those who talk all the time, is the one who never has a word to say for himself. Be observant, read and try to cultivate an easy conversational manner.

Horoscope for Sunday

The year is somewhat adverse for those who have birthdays on this date. They are warned of deception and sharp practice, against which they should be on their guard. The child born today will be self-reliant, confident, frank, sincere and honorable, especially if born before noon. If born in the afternoon he will be refined and girls as level-headed as any I've seen in a long time. I'd say your friend Paul is straining at gnats and swallowing mountains when he refuses to tell Coral Easton the truth because it would make her nervous; and on top of that he refuses to call in real help to prevent any such thing happening again."

"Oh, Alan," she cried, "Why have you come here?"

"Paul's a very good doctor, Duncan. Neal said gravely, "If he thinks it best not to tell her, I agree."

"Oh, heavens, Neal, I didn't mean to tread on your toes and, of course, if Paul says the girl is nervous, I suppose she is. I'll take his word for that. But—if she is so nervous, how come she wants to stay in a cottage by herself? Not many nervous persons would want to do that."

Neal only shook his head, expressing his own inability to answer Duncan's remarks. I was sure he was puzzled and worried by Duncan's outspoken criticism of Coral and Dr. Paul. Poor Neal. If he really were in love with Coral, his life wasn't all roses, that is sure.

"Mother's not at the Rutherford's cottage," it was Josie's voice which roused me from my thoughts. "I can't think where she can be. She so seldom leaves the place without telling me first, in case I should need her and want to send for her."

"Did you look in the kitchen?" asked Neal.

"Yes, before I came in here the first time. Neal, I'm scared. So many queer things have happened lately."

"Nonsense, sis," Neal's voice held a bantering note. "I'll make the rounds and find her for you. She's probably in one of the cottages, talking to someone."

Neal didn't seem at all uneasy over his mother's absence. Probably it was all foolishness, Josie being so worked up, but I could understand how she felt. I would have been the same.

"Let's all go look," suggested Duncan. "That is, Josie, if you really are uneasy."

"Oh, I suppose I'm playing the baby as Pauline did last night. But I keep thinking—suppose something has happened to her—as it did to—Mrs. Rutherford?"

"Come on," Duncan rose quickly. "I'll go outside with Neal. You girls go over the house and we'll meet here again as quickly as we can."

Josie leading the way, we went into every room in the main house, wings and kitchen ell. We looked into each bathroom, peered into every closet. Josie's nervousness communicated itself to Rhoda and me. We were both expelling the worst. I can't explain why, but I was, and Rhoda told me later she felt the same way. When our tour was over, with nothing to show for it, I didn't know whether to feel more scared or relieved.

Back to the lounge we went, and had scarcely entered the room when an imperious rapping sounded on the front door. I was the nearest to it, and at Josie's gesture (she turned whiter than before at the sound) I opened it.

Outside stood Alan Murray. "Is Miss Ivy here?" he asked pleasantly.

Josie pushed me. "Oh, Alan," she cried. "Why have you come here? Neal will be furious."

"Mother sent me to ask if Miss Ivy is here," he repeated the words as though he did not know what else to say.

"Miss Ivy! Here? You know she's not. Can't you think up a better excuse than that?" Josie was half laughing, half crying.

"I'm serious, Josie," Alan's face bore a worried air. "Miss Ivy told mother she was coming over here to see your mother. That was over an hour ago. She said she'd be right back, and mother got nervous when she didn't return."

What in the world was the matter with everyone, I thought. Here we were fussing over Mrs. Peake's absence when there was probably a legitimate errand and across the terrace door. His words were cut short by an outburst of furious barking from Tinker, ending in a high prolonged howl.

"Why on earth would she come over here?" demanded Neal. He looked sharply at Josie. "Are you positive that was his real reason for coming?" Suspicion was in his voice.

Again I intervened, and again I got away with it. "I'm positive, Neal. I talked with him first."

"Let's all go out and look around the grounds," suggested Rhoda.

"It's so thick you can't tell a shrub or a tree from a—" Duncan was declaring as we went out the terrace door. His words were cut short by an outburst of furious barking from Tinker, ending in a high prolonged howl.

Pickaway Garden Club Hears Interesting Talk

Reports Add To Program On Friday

A well rounded program of talks by members of the Pickaway County Garden Club was highlighted by the informal resume of her recent trip to Great Britain by Miss Margaret Rooney, at the Friday session of the club at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Pontius of West High Street.

The house was beautifully decorated with pots of vari-colored calladium, autumn berries and foliage, and fall flowers.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. C. K. Hunsicker, president, the minutes of the previous meeting being read by Mrs. G. G. Campbell, club secretary, Mrs. Donald H. Watt, club treasurer, submitting her monthly report. Mrs. Hunsicker exhibited catalogues that had been received from various bulb and seed firms.

Mrs. M. E. Noggle, chairman of the Children's Forest project sponsored by the local club, read a letter of acknowledgement from the project supervisor. Mrs. Noggle reported that the state of Georgia leads the nation in its support of this movement. Seven million trees have been planted throughout the nation at a cost of $650,000.

Mrs. Jay Wall presented the names of two new members, Mrs. J. Wray Henry and Mrs. E. W. Stebelton.

Mrs. Hunsicker then called for reports from members attending the State Convention which was at Lima.

Mrs. Richard Jones reported first, giving an interesting resume of the talk of Alfred Hottes, editor of Better Homes and Gardens, in regard to the respect that should be shown a visiting speaker.

Mrs. Campbell reviewed the high lights in connection with the various "hobby dinners" that had been planned.

Mrs. M. E. Noggle reported on the flower show that was held in connection with the convention and told of the Rock Garden and Pool display at the picturesque Shawnee Country Club near Lima.

Mrs. Howard Jones suggested to club members that, when planting trees where it could be done, it would be a worthwhile thing to plant Buckeye trees since Ohio is known as the Buckeye state.

Mrs. R. F. Lilly stated that on her recent trip to Florida, she took with her a number of Buckeyes which attracted wide spread attention in Sarasota, Fla., where they were displayed in a store window.

Mrs. F. K. Blair, program chairman, delighted the group when she introduced Miss Margaret Rooney, who gave a beautiful description of the flowers and gardens which she noted on her recent trip to the British Isles.

Miss Rooney gave vivid word portrayal of the cottages surrounded by little gardens, with pink foxgloves growing along the countryside, red poppies intermingled with the wheat, oats, rye and barley in the fields, the stoney hillsides completely covered with wild roses, also the gorgeous fuchsia hedges that resemble green hedges with myriads of red and pink butterflies nestled amid their leaves.

She told of the thatched roof cottages and masses of white and yellow calla lilies that are as common there as the dandelion is in this country. Vast expanses of rhododendron, in purple and pink, grow on the banks of brooklet and stream. The Rose of Sharon is found there in a deep yellow shade.

Warwick Castle in England, which houses the finest collection in the world of paintings of old Masters, Miss Rooney stated was also surrounded by vast terraces, where deer graze and spacious green lawns carpet the earth. Here also is located a conservatory that houses a huge vase taken from the ruins of Pompeii, and within its walls all kinds of roses grow.

Ann Hathaway's cottage, she told, was more lovely than a writer could describe, its quaint garden harboring masses of pinks, foxgloves, ragged robins and Canterbury bells, outlined by the famed apple orchard.

Miss Rooney closed her talk with a description of Scotland, telling of the noted Flower Clock, which keeps perfect time, Edinburgh Castle, the Princess Street Garden, where band concerts are

MAESTRO CALLS FOR NEW PUPILS

This year as in previous years, band instructor C. F. Zaenglein is organizing a Junior band. Boys and girls from grades five to twelve inclusive are eligible.

Mrs. Zaenglein said that the pupil should have some natural talent, but experience with a musical instrument was not necessary. He also stated that cooperation from the parents are needed in order to make the band a complete unit because a band cannot be composed of fifty trumpets.

Anyone interested in joining the band will find a wide selection of band instruments awaiting him. They are piccolos, oboes, clarinets, saxophones, bassoons, baritones, Eb horns, mellophones, French horns, Eb bass (furnished), BBb basses (furnished), tympani (kettledrums), bass drums (two furnished), snare drums (one furnished), xylophone, slide trombones, and bells (furnished).

Pupils must have time to practice at home, and regular group rehearsals will be held each Friday after school in the auditorium. Instruments are not purchased by the school. However, the school owns a few which have been mentioned above.

Now is a good time to "take up" an instrument because there will be many beginners. Mr. Zaenglein says that blanks containing all needed information may be found at any grade school and at the high school.

WHO WILL HAVE ONE MAY BE TWO

Magazines, magazines, and more magazines! Have you subscribed for a magazine yet? If not, why not?—This is the usual blither and blather that is being furnished by the junior class as they attempt to sell customers subscriptions to one or more periodicals.

The class has been selling magazines for the past week. The purpose is to raise funds for the Junior-Senior banquet.

Members were divided into a Red and Black team, headed by Paul Turner and Mary Adele Snider, and Leland Siegfald and Pollyanna Friedman respectively. It seems as though the "Blackies" are better "Elmer Blurps" than the "Redies" since the formers' sales are three times as great.

Mary Kathryn Pile received one dollar for being the first to turn in ten dollars worth of subscriptions.

CHEERING TRYOUTS HELD

During the last week Pat Bennett and Peggy Goeller have been coaching eight candidates for cheer leading positions. These pupils, Kathryn Betts, Blenn Cook, Mary Virginia Crites, Florence Dreabach, Audrey Esack, Mona Lee Hanley, Carolyn Herrmann, and Paul Siegfald, led several cheers at the C. H. S. Greenfield football game last night.

Next week the student body will elect two of these candidates for permanent cheer leading positions. They will cheer at football and reserve basketball games, while the veterans will cheer at all games, including varsity basketball.

CLUB SPONSORS FOOTBALL RALLY

Noise, laughter, cheers, and a big fire was all present at the Hi-Y bon-fire Thursday evening. At this fire those who attended founded a new "ism"—"enthusiasm". Prior to the fire new Hi-Y members contributed to a pile of cardboard boxes and anything that would burn. At 7:30 the fire was started and a crowd of boys and girls formed a circle about it.

Your reporter who was but a mere figurehead was present to lend his voice to the worthy cause. Cheerleaders, Pat Bennett, Mary Fickard, and Peggy Goeller led the cheers and the Junior group of cheerleaders made their first appearance. After the fire died down a group of pupils started a snake dance up Court Street and thru the downtown district. Before breaking up, the group gave some cheers and went home.

Monday evening at their regular meeting the Hi-Y club was host to prospective members. At their coming meeting the club will vote on acceptance of applications.

Last night after the game the club sponsored a dance in the social room.

HS PUPILS HEAR ROTARY SPEAKER

Thursday afternoon, the Circleville high school student body was addressed by a boy younger than most of those present. However in the past two years, in spite of overwhelming odds this youngster has learned to use his talents and leisure profitably.

Ira Gossett Hawk was stricken by infantile paralysis in Erie, Pennsylvania, August 16, 1937. He and his family were having a vacation trip at the time. For eight months he was on his back, completely paralyzed. Having improved sufficiently, he had an operation for a dropped foot. Then to culminate his bad luck, he had his arm broken on his first trip out of the house.

But his luck then changed. Backed by his mother he put out his first issue of the "Salem Echo" to entertain his schoolmates. From this humble beginning of 150 copies and four pages, his paper has grown to a monthly publication with 800 regular subscribers in 32 states, England and Canada. Started as a hobby to help fill in long hours, the paper has become a full time job for Ira and his mother.

Many notable persons have subscribed to his paper. These include Shirley Temple, Jane Withers, Governor Bricker, Senators Vic Donahey and Robert Taft, Congressman Polk, and many others.

He is still on crutches and while his physical condition is improved, he is far from well. His aim is to earn money from the "Echo" to pay for a college education.

SCHOOL SPIRIT

Many of the pupils around the high school talk about "school spirit", yet I wonder if we all really understand the true meaning of these two words. The common idea is that to have this "school spirit" one must be "out" for athletics, or at least, be present at every game to root for the team. It is a fine thing indeed to be on the team or go to the football and basketball games and cheer for your team, and it is most certainly school spirit. But doesn't it go just a little deeper than this?

I believe that "school spirit" is not necessarily confined to the athletic and social activities of the high school, but also to the school itself. Your attitude toward studies and teachers, your pride in the work you hand in, your courtesy to other pupils and teachers, and your sportsmanship, all come under the heading of school spirit.

No matter how well you play the game or how much you cheer your team, you don't have "school spirit" in the true sense, unless you possess these other qualities. This spirit is easy to have on the football field or the basketball floor, because you like to play the game or you like to cheer on your team. But it becomes more difficult when you are required to do something that you dislike and the more difficult the task is, the better the test of your school spirit.

If we put as much enthusiasm into all our high school classes as we do into our activities, I think that Circleville high school would become a much better place for both teachers and pupils.

Helen Beck, Mary Fickard, and Mary Schreiner were in charge of the program, patriotic poetry. Mary Fickard read the "Marselles" in French and Helen Beck read on original poem, "The New American", and a minute biography of McKinley Kantor, Mary Schreiner read "Oh Captain, My Captain" by Walt Whitman.

Next week's program will consist of poems of Autumn, conducted by Pollyanna Friedman and Betty Sapp.

These new members who attended this meeting will be initiated in six weeks if they show that they are earnestly interested in the club's purpose.

Pickaway Garden Club Hears Interesting Talk

Reports Add To Program On Friday

A well rounded program of talks by members of the Pickaway County Garden Club was highlighted by the informal resume of her recent trip to Great Britain by Miss Margaret Rooney, at the Friday session of the club at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Pontius of West High Street.

The house was beautifully decorated with pots of vari-colored calladium, autumn berries and foliage, and fall flowers.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. C. K. Hunsicker, president, the minutes of the previous meeting being read by Mrs. G. G. Campbell, club secretary. Mrs. Donald H. Watt, club treasurer, submitting her monthly report. Mrs. Hunsicker exhibited catalogues that had been received from various bulb and seed firms.

Mrs. M. E. Noggle, chairman of the Children's Forest project sponsored by the local club, read a letter of acknowledgement from the project supervisor. Mrs. Noggle reported that the state of Georgia leads the nation in its support of this movement. Seven million trees have been planted throughout the nation at a cost of $650,000.

Mrs. Jay Wall presented the names of two new members, Mrs. J. Wray Henry and Mrs. E. W. Stebbins.

Mrs. Hunsicker then called for reports from members attending the State Convention which was at Lima.

Mrs. Richard Jones reported first, giving an interesting resume of the talk of Alfred Hottes, editor of Better Homes and Gardens, in regard to the respect that should be shown a visiting speaker.

Mrs. Campbell reviewed the various highlights in connection with the high "hobby dinners" that had been planned.

Mrs. E. Noggle reported on the flower show that was held in connection with the convention and told of the Rock Garden and Pool display at the picturesque Shawnee Country Club near Lima.

Mrs. Howard Jones suggested to club members that, when planting trees where it could be done, it would be a worthwhile thing to plant Buckeye trees since Ohio is known as the Buckeye state.

Mrs. R. F. Lilly stated that on her recent trip to Florida, she took with her a number of Buckeyes which attracted wide spread attention in Sarasota, Fla., where they were displayed in a store window.

Mrs. F. K. Blair, program chairman, delighted the group when she introduced Miss Margaret Rooney, who gave a beautiful description of the flowers and gardens which she noted on her recent trip to the British Isles.

Miss Rooney gave vivid word portrayal of the cottages surrounded by little gardens, with pink foxgloves growing along the countryside, red poppies intermingled with the wheat, oats, rye and barley in the fields, the stoney hillsides completely covered with wild roses, also the gorgeous fuchsia hedges that resemble green hedges with myriads of red and pink butterflies nestled amid their leaves.

She told of the thatched roof cottages and masses of white and yellow calla lilies that are as common there as the dandelion is in this country. Vast expanses of rhododendron, in purple and pink, grow on the banks of brooklet and stream. The Rose of Sharon is found there in a deep yellow shade.

Cultivated roses grow to unusual height with roses averaging four inches in diameter. Their colors are pink, orange, yellow, white and red. It has been found that this climate is especially suited to roses. Canterbury bells and hydrangeas thrive unusually well.

Miss Rooney related the facts concerning the construction of a temple and Italian Garden on an island in Glenn Gariff Harbor, which is a sight of grandeur from an architectural standpoint.

The eleven Lakes of Killarney, noted throughout all Irish writings, for their beauty, were visited, also Muckross Abbey, a noted monastery, that has within its garden the famous Yew Tree where monks of past days walked and read their bibles, amid the wild flowers.

Included in this interesting tour were the Botanical Gardens of Dublin, Ireland, that exhibit the largest water lily in the world, it measuring eight feet in diameter. Warwick Castle in England, which houses the finest collection in the world of paintings of old Masters. Miss Rooney stated was also surrounded by vast terraces, where deer graze and spacious green lawns carpet the earth. Here also is located a conservatory that houses a huge vase taken from the ruins of Pompeii, and within its walls all kinds of roses grow.

Ann Hathaway's cottage, she told, was more lovely than a writer could describe, its quaint garden harboring masses of pinks, foxgloves, ragged robins and Canterbury bells, outlined by the famed apple orchard.

Miss Rooney closed her talk with a description of Scotland, telling of the noted Flower Clock, which keeps perfect time, Edinburgh Castle, the Princess Street Garden, where band concerts are

MAESTRO CALLS FOR NEW PUPILS
This year as in previous years, band instructor C. F. Zaenglein is organizing a Junior band. Boys and girls from grades five to twelve inclusive are eligible.

Mrs. Zaenglein said that the pupil should have some natural talent, but experience with a musical instrument was not necessary. He also stated that cooperation from the parents are needed in order to make the band a complete unit because a band cannot be composed of fifty trumpets.

Anyone interested in joining the band will find a wide selection of band instruments awaiting him. They are piccolos, oboes, clarinets, saxophones, bassoons, baritones, Eb horns, mellophones, French horns, Eb bass (furnished), Bb basses (furnished), tympanies (kettledrums), bass drums (two furnished), snare drums (one furnished), xylophone, slide trombones, and bells furnished.

Pupils must have time to practice at home, and regular group rehearsals will be held each Friday after school in the auditorium. Instruments are not purchased by the school. However, the school owns a few which have been mentioned above.

Now is a good time to "take up" an instrument because there will be many beginners. Mr. Zaenglein says that blanks containing all needed information may be found at any grade school and at the high school.

WHO WILL HAVE ONE MAY BE TWO
Magazines, magazines, and more magazines! Have you subscribed for a magazine yet? If not, why not?—This is the usual blither and blather that is being furnished by the junior class as they attempt to sell customers subscriptions to one or more periodicals.

The class has been selling magazines for the past week. The purpose is to raise funds for the Junior-Senior banquet.

Members were divided into a Red and Black team, headed by Paul Turner and Mary Adele Snider, and Leland Siegwald and Pollyanna Friedman respectively. It seems as though the "Blacks" are better "Elmer Bluffs" than the "Redies" since the former's sales are three times as great.

Mary Kathryn Pile received one dollar for being the first to turn in ten dollars worth of subscriptions.

CHEERING TRYOUTS HELD
During the last week Pat Bennett and Peggy Goeller have been coaching eight candidates for cheer leading positions. These pupils, Kathryn Betts, Blenn Cook, Mary Virginia Crites, Florence Dreabach, Audrey Esack, Mona Lee Hanley, Carolyn Herrmann, and Paul Siegwald, led several cheers at the C. H. S. Greenfield football game last night.

Next week the student body will elect two of these candidates for permanent cheer leading positions. They will cheer at football and reserve basketball games, while the veterans will cheer at all games, including varsity basketball.

JUNIORS CONDUCT BOOTH
Friday night at the Greenfield-Circleville game, the junior class had charge of the booth. Lloyd Jones, chairman, had as his co-workers Betty Clifton, Rose Anne Griner, Jane Klingensmith, Robert Melvin, Mary Ruth Owens, Betty Sapp, Mary Adele Snider and Doris Waters.

HS PUPILS HEAR ROTARY SPEAKER
Thursday afternoon, the Circleville high school student body was addressed by a boy younger than most of those present. However in the past two years, in spite of overwhelming odds this youngster has learned to use his talents and leisure profitably.

Ira Gossett Hawk was stricken by infantile paralysis in Erie, Pennsylvania, August 16, 1937. He and his family were having a vacation trip at the time. For eight months he was on his back, completely paralyzed. Having improved sufficiently, he had an operation for a dropped foot. Then to culminate his bad luck, he had his arm broken on his first trip out of the house.

But his luck then changed. Backed by his mother he put out his first issue of the "Salem Echo" to entertain his schoolmates. From this humble beginning of 150 copies and four pages, his paper has grown to a monthly publication with 800 regular subscribers in 32 states, England and Canada. Started as a hobby to help fill in long hours, the paper has become a full time job for Ira and his mother.

Many notable persons have subscribed to his paper. These include Shirley Temple, Jane Withers, Governor Bricker, Senators Vic Donahay and Robert Taft, Congressman Polk, and many others.

He is still on crutches and while his physical condition is improved, he is far from well. His aim is to earn money from the "Echo" to pay for a college education.

CLUB SPONSORS FOOTBALL RALLY

Noise, laughter, cheers, and a big fire was all present at the Hi-Y bon-fire Thursday evening. At this fire those who attended founded a new "ism"—"enthusiasm". Prior to the fire new Hi-Y members contributed to a pile of cardboard boxes and anything that would burn. At 7:30 the fire was started and a crowd of boys and girls formed a circle about it.

Your reporter who was but a mere figurehead was present to lend his voice to the worthy cause. Cheerleaders, Pat Bennett, Mary Fickard, and Peggy Goeller led the cheers and the Junior group of cheerleaders made their first appearance. After the fire died down a group of pupils started a snake dance up Court Street and thru the downtown district. Before breaking up, the group gave some cheers and went home.

Monday evening at their regular meeting the Hi-Y club was host to prospective members. At their coming meeting the club will vote on acceptance of applications.

Last night after the game the club sponsored a dance in the social room.

EDITORIAL SCHOOL SPIRIT

Many of the pupils around the high school talk about "school spirit", yet I wonder if we all really understand the true meaning of these two words. The common idea is that to have this "school spirit" one must be "out" for athletics, or at least, be present at every game to root for the team. It is a fine thing indeed to be on the team or go to the football and basketball games and cheer for your team, and it is most certainly school spirit. But doesn't it go just a little deeper than this?

I believe that "school spirit" is not necessarily confined to the athletic and social activities of the high school, but also to the school itself. Your attitude toward studies and teachers, your pride in the work you hand in, your courtesy to other pupils and teachers, and your sportsmanship, all come under the heading of school spirit.

No matter how well you play the game or how much you cheer your team, you don't have "school spirit" in the true sense, unless you possess these other qualities. This spirit is easy to have on the football field or the basketball floor, because you like to play the game or you like to cheer on your team. But it becomes more difficult when you are required to do something that you dislike and the more difficult the task is, the better the test of your school spirit.

If we put as much enthusiasm into all our high school classes as we do into our activities, I think that Circleville high school would become a much better place for both teachers and pupils.

He based his opinion on two beliefs: that Americans remember the great war; that the United States be of more help to the allies by remaining clear of hostilities.

read that Archie Johnson had blown out his brains with a revolver.

GREAT SENATE RECORD

Probably Hiram Johnson spent his most fruitful years as Governor of California, where he re-organized the state machinery, introduced popular election laws and championed the cause of labor. Later, in the United States Senate, he made possible Boulder Dam, was in the forefront of every power fight (until recently), and led an investigation of Wall Street long before the Pecora probe.

FEARLESS FIGHTER

Hiram Johnson has unflinching courage, both physical and moral. Nothing can daunt him. In 1908 a lawyer named Francis J. Heney was prosecuting Abe Ruef for bribery. That was in the still wild days of California, and someone pulled a gun and shot Heney down in court.

Hiram was selected to take Heney's place, which he did without hesitation, securing the conviction of Ruef.

Today his fighting is just as fearless, just as determined. Nothing daunts him. But is a different kind of fighting, more bitter, more morose.

FAMILY TRAGEDY

Undoubtedly the change that has come over Hiram Johnson is a personal tragedy involving the death of his second son, Archie, who was the apple of his father's eye.

One day Judge Walton Moore of the State Department walked into Johnson's office in the Capitol, noticed a picture on the wall and said, "That's a mighty fine looking officer, Senator. Who is it?"

"That's my son, Archie," replied Johnson.

"Oh yes," said Moore. "I have heard Dr. Wynne of the State Department speak of him."

"He and Dr. Wynne were very good friends," replied Johnson. Whereupon the Senator broke down and wept.

Archie, a California lawyer, took dramatic and difficult cases as attorney for the Chinese tongs. And when a case was over he frequently went on a binge. Meantime his wife became estranged, and eventually married another man.

On one occasion Senator Dave Reed of Pennsylvania came to visit Johnson in San Francisco, and the latter asked Archie to show the visitor about the town. Archie did so. Reed left later in the day for Chicago, and when he got off the train, picked up a paper to

During the months of July, August and September the Pickaway County Relief Administration issued 53,835 pounds of surplus commodities. The following commodities were issued during the three-month period: beans 5,691 pounds, butter 6,592 pounds, corn meal 7,314 pounds, flour 11,119 pounds, grapefruit juice 12,900 pounds, rice 3,600 pounds and wheat cereal 6,619 pounds.

"That's my son, Archie," replied Johnson.

"Oh yes," said Moore, "I have heard Dr. Wynne of the State Department speak of him."

"He and Dr. Wynne were very good friends," replied Johnson. Whereupon the Senator broke down and wept.

Archie, a California lawyer, took dramatic and difficult cases as attorney for the Chinese tons. And when a case was over he frequently went on a binge. Meantime his wife became estranged, and eventually married another man.

On one occasion Senator Dave Reed of Pennsylvania came to visit Johnson in San Francisco, and the latter asked Archie to show the visitor about the town. Archie did so. Reed left later in the day for Chicago, and when he got off the train, picked up a paper to was returned during the January term of court.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff, who has spent considerable time working on the case, said a license number obtained by a Cambridge woman, the victim of a monument deal, resulted in a trace on Gribble.

Two Pickaway County women were victims of the monument frauds, the sheriff explained. Mrs. Sarah A. Hinton, Darbyville, paid $29.50 and never received the monument and Mrs. Maggie Worley, near Five Points, paid $25. The price on the monuments was $20 and $9.50 was charged for setting them up. The racket was worked in other parts of the state, the sheriff said.

YOUNG ATLANTA CONVICT FLEES WITH HIS BRIDE

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 7.—A wealthy and influential convict was hunted throughout the Southeast today as he fled from the law on a delayed honeymoon with the pretty blonde wife he married in prison two years ago.

He broke away from two guards and fled with the girl in a prison automobile yesterday as he was being transferred to a convict camp in southeast Georgia.

The fugitive is Richard Gallogly, member of a prominent Atlanta family, who was sentenced to life imprisonment for murder in 1929. While a student at Oglethorpe University, he was convicted with George Harsh of Milwaukee, a fellow undergraduate, of having killed a drug store clerk. Gallogly is now only 29.

His wife is a former student of the Georgia State College for women whom he met and wooed when she went to the prison camp to help direct a stage play for the convicts.

Reports that unusual favors had been granted the youth have been denied from time to time by prison authorities, but only recently his treatments for a lung ailment at an Atlanta hospital were discontinued when specialists appointed by Gov. E. D. Rivers declared his health was not as bad as supposed. The order for his transfer to the remote camp followed.

Prison authorities refused to discuss details of the escape and referred inquiries to Chief Inspector Roy K. Mann of the state penal board who said Gallogly had suddenly whipped out a gun when the car was in a lonely stretch of road and forced out the guards. His mother, accompanying him on the trip to the new camp, was made to join the guards on the roadside as the young couple drove off.

OHIO RANKS HIGH FOR COMPENSATION CHECKS

COLUMBUS, Oct. 7.—Ohio ranks first among all the 48 states and three territories in payment of unemployment compensation benefits and economical bureau administration, it was announced at the third annual meeting of the Inter-State Conference of Unemployment Compensation Agencies just concluded at Indianapolis, Indiana.

Ohio has an administrative expense of 5.1 percent, weighing costs against contributions, according to R. G. Wagenet, Assistant Director, Division of Unemployment Compensation in the Bureau of Employment Security, Washington, D. C.

Reasonable cost for administration of these state agencies was tentatively set at 10 percent when the Federal program was started. Then it was contemplated that the peace, with the alternative of a "guerre totale."

Authoritative German quarters said Der Fuehrer is ready to accept unconditionally any armistice proposed by President Roosevelt or the representative of any other neutral power, as the gateway to a peaceful settlement.

Chancellor Hitler was represented as willing to wait as long as ten days for a peace initiative on the part of a neutral country—but the French said this delay will only give Germany the opportunity to fill out her lines along the Western Front.

The attitude of the British and French man in the street afforded little prospect that Hitler's hopes would be crowned with success. "We're in it now," was the general attitude of the Briton, and as one man said, "Hitler has tried to frighten us, but we don't frighten easily. This is now a war to the finish."

French Must Go On

Immediately after Hitler's speech to the Reichstag, Premier Edouard Daladier of France said: "We must go on with the war which has been imposed on us, until the victory permits the establishment of a regime of real justice and lasting peace in Europe."

London quickly pointed out that the primary demands of Great Britain: destruction of Nazism and restoration of the Polish and Czechoslovakian states, were not mentioned in Hitler's speech.

Italy seemed disconcerted by the attitude of her somewhat estranged axis partner, and Rome saw peace prospects fading.

Russia went calmly about the business of extending and consolidating her gains in the Baltic. Lithuania's foreign minister, Juozas Urbys, flew to Moscow at the head of a delegation to conclude a military pact of mutual assistance paralleling those reached by Latvia and Estonia.

Lithuania, however, will gain by the receipt of part of the Vilna district, long disputed between Poland and Lithuania.

Russia, it was understood, receives the right to build a line of forts along the frontier between Lithuania and Germany.

While the United States senate stood in adjournment over the week end and debate on the neutrality bill was suspended, the American liner Iriquois, said by grand erican liner Iriquois, said by Grand Admiral Erich Raeder of Germany to be threatened with sinking, proceeded safely on its way toward New York as a convoy of American warships neared her position.

PRESBYTERIAN MEN HEAR CITY MANAGER DEBATE

A debate on the subject "Should Circleville Adopt the City Manager Form of Government" has been arranged for the meeting of the Presbyterian Men's Club to be held Tuesday, October 10, at 6:30 p. m. An open forum will follow the debate.

R. L. Brehmer will discuss the affirmative side of the issue and William R. Reid the negative. All interested persons are invited to attend the meeting.

Those planning to attend the dinner are urged to make reservations by Monday noon with the Rev. Robert T. Kelsey, Thomas Brunner, George D. McDowell or J. W. Adkins, Jr.

The debate, the club believes, will acquaint many persons with the various points of the issue. Circleville voters will ballot at the November election on whether they want a change in the form of government.

VEILED PROPHETS BALL

ST. LOUIS—St. Louis' sixty-first annual Veiled Prophet's Ball and Parade will be held Oct. 10 and 11. The Veiled Prophet has announced that the traditional parade and ball, which usher in the social season in St. Louis, will not be affected by the European war. In the 61 years of history of the Veiled Prophet, the parade and ball have only been cancelled twice, in the years of 1917 and 1918, when America herself was actively involved in war.

The heaviest standard length steel rails in use on railroads in the United States weighs nearly one ton.

larger states would be able to get below the 10 percent line and that the smaller states would, in most cases, exceed it.
"The field of unemployment compensation is still new and experimental in this country. Ohio has set a standard and expects to maintain it," H. C. Atkinson, Administrator of the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation, declared today.

Movies Offer History, Romance, Thrills

WILLIAM Holden and Barbara Stanwyck are starred with Adolphe Menjou in Columbia's "Golden Boy," which opens Sunday at the Cliftona Theatre. Rouben Mamoulian directed the stirring drama of a musician who deserts his violin for the fame and glory of the prize-ring and the lips of a "dame from Newark." Joseph Calleia, Lee Cobb, Sam Levene and Edward Brophy also appear in the screen version of the Clifford Odets play.

U. S. S. ARIZONA DAMAGED, WEST COAST REPORTS

LOS ANGELES, Harbor, Oct. 7.—Although local naval authorities refused to comment, rumors persisted at Los Angeles harbor today that sabotage had been perpetrated aboard the battleship U. S. S. Arizona.

Almost immediately after the vessel dropped anchor in the harbor last night on its return from battle practice on the high seas, reports began circulating to the effect that machinery and water tanks had been tampered with, supposedly by saboteurs.

The Los Angeles Bureau of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the naval intelligence unit, reported to have been called in to the case, both refused to comment on the reported sabotage.

CRUISERS NEAR MEETING PLACE WITH IRIQUOIS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The liner Iriquois, returning 584 Americans from European war zones to the United States, and five naval vessels speeding to convoy the threatened vessel to New York, approached a rendezvous in mid-Atlantic today.

Official navy department silence indicated there had been no materialization of Germany's warning that the Iriquois was slated to be sunk by England or France. All communications with the Iriquois and the five vessels rushing to her side—four destroyers and a coast guard cutter—were closely guarded by the department.

Germany has claimed, since the British liner Athena was sunk on Sept. 3 as she bore refugees away from the war zones, that Britain planned and executed the vessel's destruction in an effort to inflame the United States against the Reich.

Four new warnings of mine-infested areas were flashed to merchant ships at sea by U. S. radio last night, bringing the total number of such warnings since the outbreak of the war to 35. Two of the warnings were received from the British admiralty, one from Soviet Russia and one from Germany.

The Soviet announced establishment of a "prohibited zone" in the entrance to the White Sea, and Germany's warning covered areas in the Baltic Sea described as the southern outlet of the sound. The British warnings covered additional combat areas adjacent to England.

CLAIM AFTER ACCIDENT BRINGS $350 SETTLEMENT

A settlement of $350 was authorized in Probate Court, Saturday, in the claim of James William McCray, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Page McCray, Madison Township, against Franklin Miller of Waterloo.

The child was hurt last May 24 when struck by an auto when riding his bicycle on the Goodman-Teggarden Road about one fifth of a mile north of the Madison Township School.

U. S. IS TRAINING MANY TO HANDLE ARMY AIRCRAFT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The United States by 1941 will have between 5,000 and 9,000 new and carefully-trained airplane pilots capable of taking the controls in defense of the country, it was learned today.

These pilots will be products of the Civil Aeronautics Authority's program to train between 10,000 and 11,000 college and university students as flyers.

They will be in no wise obligated to enter the military air services, according to CAA, but they undeniably will be excellently equipped to take up such service.

Chairman Robert M. Hinckley of the authority launched a new phase of the training program designed to assure the quality of the training output. Tragedies of "European pressure training programs, such as that of Germany, where it is reported that 1,300 casualties occurred in 1933," will be averted, Hinckley said.

The new phase comprises a $100,000 research drive to raise the percentage of capable pilots above the "50 out of 100" who currently survive the rigid Army Air Corps training center course in Texas.

In addition, the researchers, operating through psychology and physiology staffs of the institutions participating in the CAA training program, and using the trainees in each school as subjects, will tackle the difficult problem of pilot fatigue—I. S., at what point a pilot is no longer fit to operate a plane.

FORMER PASTOR OF CIRCLEVILLE CHURCH IS DEAD

Surviving are his widow, Ella McKee Johnson, and two children, Dorothy, teacher at Chillicothe, and Kay of Chicago.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at 2:30 p. m. in the home with the Rev. George Parkin of Washington C. H., officiating. Burial will be in Grandview Cemetery in Chillicothe.

Mr. Johnson left Circleville 12 years ago. He was pastor of the Circleville church for two years. In recent years Mr. Johnson had been engaged in government bureau work and farming.

ZANESVILLE MAN SPEAKS AT DISTRICT EAGLE MEET

Candidates from London, Springfield, Columbus, Greenfield, Washington C. H. and Circleville will be initiated. The Columbus lodge will conduct the work.

The Circleville lodge, headed by Ralph Friley, will have 25 candidates.

MAN WHO URGED KAISER TO KEEP FROM WAR DIES

GENEVA, Oct. 7.—A refugee from his native land because of opposition to the Hitler regime, Count Johann Heinrich Von Bernstorff, 76, last ambassador to the United States from imperial Germany, was dead here today.

Once one of the most brilliant, and later one of the most controversial figures in the pre-World War diplomatic set of Washington, Von Bernstorff died a recluse, shunned by the present leaders of the country he served for many years as an outstanding diplomat.

The aging former diplomat died of heart disease.

Target for the hatred of Americans in the war-impassioned days of 1917, Von Bernstorff died respected by world figures as a liberal who sought to establish a democratic government in Germany after the World War defeat. He was a leading figure in the League of Nations.

Sad and disillusioned by the rise of Hitler, Von Bernstorff fled Germany in 1933 and has lived here since. For the last five years he has lived alone but for his American-born wife, the former Jeanne Luckmeyer, of New York. He spent his last days writing his memoirs.

To his death, Von Bernstorff contended that had the former Kaiser Wilhelm followed his advice the United States never would have entered the World War. He said that resort to unrestricted submarine warfare automatically would bring America into the war.

Von Bernstorff served as ambassador in Washington from 1908 until he was handed his passport when the United States declared war in 1917.

45 C. & O. RAIL CARS IN CRASH NEAR MARION, O.

MARION, Oct. 7.—Forty-five cars of two Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad trains were derailed near Marion today when an axle of a northbound coal train broke. No one was injured.

Railroaders said the broken axle caused the car to topple over against the passing southbound freight.

Traffic on the line, a main branch of the C. & O., was halted while workmen cleared away the debris. Tracks were torn up for about 600 feet.

Twenty-five of the cars contained coal which was strewn all along the right. The 20 derailed cars of the southbound train were empty. Officials of the line said they expected to have traffic restored late this afternoon.

was returned during the January term of court.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff, who has spent considerable time working on the case, said a license number obtained by a Cambridge woman, the victim of a monument deal, resulted in a trace on Gribble.

Two Pickaway County women were victims of the monument frauds, the sheriff explained. Mrs. Sarah A. Hinton, Darbyville, paid $29.50 and never received the monument and Mrs. Maggie Worley, near Five Points, paid $25. The price on the monuments was $20 and $9.50 was charged for setting them up. The racket was worked in other parts of the state, the sheriff said.

YOUNG ATLANTA CONVICT FLEES WITH HIS BRIDE

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 7.—A wealthy and influential convict was hunted throughout the Southeast today as he fled from the law on a delayed honeymoon with the pretty-blond wife he married in prison two years ago.

He broke away from two guards and fled with the girl in a prison automobile yesterday as he was being transferred to a convict camp in southeast Georgia.

The fugitive is Richard Gallogly, member of a prominent Atlanta family, who was sentenced to life imprisonment for murder in 1929. While a student at Oglethorpe University, he was convicted with George Harsh of Milwaukee, a fellow undergraduate, of having killed a drug store clerk. Gallogly is now only 29.

His wife is a former student of the Georgia State College for women whom he met and wooed when she went to the prison camp to help direct a stage play for the convicts.

Reports that unusual favors had been granted the youth have been denied from time to time by prison authorities, but only recently his treatments for a lung ailment at an Atlanta hospital were discontinued when specialists appointed by Gov. E. D. Rivers declared his health was not as bad as supposed. The order for his transfer to the remote camp followed.

Prison authorities refused to discuss details of the escape and referred inquiries to Chief Inspector Roy K. Mann of the state penal board who said Gallogly had suddenly whipped out a gun when the car was in a lonely stretch of road and forced out the guards. His mother, accompanying him on the trip to the new camp, was made to join the guards on the roadside as the young couple drove off.

OHIO RANKS HIGH FOR COMPENSATION CHECKS

COLUMBUS, Oct. 7.—Ohio ranks first among all the 48 states and three territories in payment of unemployment compensation benefits and economical bureau administration, it was announced at the third annual meeting of the Inter-State Conference of Unemployment Compensation Agencies just concluded at Indianapolis, Indiana.

Ohio has an administrative expense of 5.1 percent, weighing costs against contributions, according to R. G. Wagenet, Assistant Director, Division of Unemployment Compensation in the Bureau of Employment Security, Washington, D. C.

Reasonable cost for administration of these state agencies was tentatively set at 10 percent when the Federal program was started. Then it was contemplated that the peace, with the alternative of a "guerre totale."

Authoritative German quarters said Der Fuehrer is ready to accept unconditionally any armistice proposed by President Roosevelt or the representative of any other neutral power, as the gateway to a peaceful settlement.

Chancellor Hitler was represented as willing to wait as long as ten days for a peace initiative on the part of a neutral country—but the French said this delay will only give Germany the opportunity to fill out her lines along the Western Front.

The attitude of the British and French man in the street afforded little prospect that Hitler's hopes would be crowned with success. "We're in it now," was the general attitude of the Briton, and as one man said, "Hitler has tried to frighten us, but we don't frighten easily. This is now a war to the finish."

French Must Go On

Immediately after Hitler's speech to the Reichstag, Premier Edouard Daladier of France said: "We must go on with the war which has been imposed on us, until the victory permits the establishment of a regime of real justice and lasting peace in Europe."

London quickly pointed out that the primary demands of Great Britain: destruction of Nazism and restoration of the Polish and Czechoslovakian states, were not mentioned in Hitler's speech.

Italy seemed disconcerted by the attitude of her somewhat estranged axis partner, and Rome saw peace prospects fading.

Russia went calmly about the business of extending and consolidating her gains in the Baltic. Lithuania's foreign minister, Juozas Urbys, flew to Moscow at the head of a delegation to conclude a military pact of mutual assistance paralleling those reached by Latvia and Estonia.

Lithuania, however, will gain by the receipt of part of the Vilna district, long disputed between Poland and Lithuania.

Russia, it was understood, receives the right to build a line of forts along the frontier between Lithuania and Germany.

While the United States senate stood in adjournment over the week end and debate on the neutrality bill was suspended, the American liner Iriquois, said by grand officer liner Iriquois, said by Grand Admiral Erich Raeder of Germany to be threatened with sinking, proceeded safely on its way toward New York as a convoy of American warships neared her position.

PRESBYTERIAN MEN HEAR CITY MANAGER DEBATE

A debate on the subject "Should Circleville Adopt the City Manager Form of Government?" has been arranged for the meeting of the Presbyterian Men's Club to be held Tuesday, October 10, at 6:30 p. m. An open forum will follow the debate.

R. L. Brehmer will discuss the affirmative side of the issue and William R. Reid the negative. All interested persons are invited to attend the meeting.

Those planning to attend the dinner are urged to make reservations by Monday noon with the Rev. Robert T. Kelsey, Thomas Brunner, George D. McDowell or J. W. Adkins, Jr.

The debate, the club believes, will acquaint many persons with the various points of the issue. Circleville voters will ballot at the November election on whether they want a change in the form of government.

VEILED PROPHETS BALL

ST. LOUIS—St. Louis' sixty-first annual Veiled Prophet's Ball and Parade will be held Oct. 10 and 11. The Veiled Prophet has announced that the traditional parade and ball, which usher in the social season in St. Louis, will not be affected by the European war. In the 61 years of history of the Veiled Prophet, the parade and ball have only been cancelled twice, in the years of 1917 and 1918, when America herself was actively involved in war.

larger states would be able to get below the 10 percent line and that the smaller states would, in most cases, exceed it.

"The field of unemployment compensation is still new and experimental in this country. Ohio has set a standard and expects to maintain it," H. C. Atkinson, Administrator of the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation, declared today.

Movies Offer History, Romance, Thrills

WILLIAM HOLDEN and Barbara Stanwyck are starred with Adolphe Menjou in Columbia's "Golden Boy," which opens Sunday at the Cliftona Theatre. Rouben Mamoulian directed the stirring drama of a musician who deserts his violin for the fame and glory of the prize-ring and the lips of a "dame from Newark." Joseph Calleia, Lee Cobb, Sam Levene and Edward Brophy also appear in the screen version of the Clifford Odets play.

U. S. S. ARIZONA DAMAGED, WEST COAST REPORTS

LOS ANGELES, Harbor, Oct. 7.—Although local naval authorities refused to comment, rumors persisted at Los Angeles harbor today that sabotage had been perpetrated aboard the battleship U. S. S. Arizona.

Almost immediately after the vessel dropped anchor in the harbor last night on its return from battle practice on the high seas, reports began circulating to the effect that machinery and water tanks had been tampered with, supposedly by saboteurs.

The Los Angeles Bureau of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the naval intelligence unit, reported to have been called in to the case, both refused to comment on the reported sabotage.

CRUISERS NEAR MEETING PLACE WITH IRIQUOIS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The liner Iriquois, returning 584 Americans from European war zones to the United States, and five naval vessels speeding to convoy the threatened vessel to New York, approached a rendezvous in mid-Atlantic today.

Official navy department silence indicated there had been no materialization of Germany's warning that the Iriquois was slated to be sunk by England or France. All communications with the Iriquois and the five vessels rushing to her side—four destroyers and a coast guard cutter—were closely guarded by the department.

Germany has claimed, since the British liner Athenia was sunk on Sept. 3 as she bore refugees away from the war zones, that Britain planned and executed the vessel's destruction in an effort to inflame the United States against the Reich.

Four new warnings of mine-infested areas were flashed to merchant ships at sea by U. S. radio last night, bringing the total number of such warnings since the outbreak of the war to 35. Two of the warnings were received from the British admiralty, one from Soviet Russia and one from Germany.

The Soviet announced establishment of a "prohibited zone" in the entrance to the White Sea, and Germany's warning covered areas in the Baltic Sea described as the southern outlet of the sound. The British warnings covered additional combat areas adjacent to England.

CLAIM AFTER ACCIDENT BRINGS $350 SETTLEMENT

A settlement of $350 was authorized in Probate Court, Saturday, in the claim of James William McCray, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Page McCray, Madison Township, against Franklin Miller of Waterloo.

The child was hurt last May 24 when struck by an auto when riding his bicycle on the Goodman-Teegardin Road about one fifth of a mile north of the Madison Township School.

U. S. IS TRAINING MANY TO HANDLE ARMY AIRCRAFT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The United States by 1941 will have between 5,000 and 9,000 new and carefully-trained airplane pilots capable of taking the controls in defense of the country, it was learned today.

These pilots will be products of the Civil Aeronautics Authority's program to train between 10,000 and 11,000 college and university students as flyers.

They will be in no wise obligated to enter the military air services, according to CAA, but they undeniably will be excellently equipped to take up such service.

Chairman Robert M. Hinkley of the authority launched a new phase of the training program designed to assure the quality of the training output. Tragedies of "European pressure training programs, such as that of Germany, where it is reported that 1,300 casualties occurred in 1933," will be averted, Hinkley said.

The new phase comprises a $100,000 research drive to raise the percentage of capable pilots above the "50 out of 100" who currently survive the rigid Army Air Corps training center course in Texas.

In addition, the researchers, operating through psychology and physiology staffs of the institutions participating in the CAA training program, and using the trainees in each school as subjects, will tackle the difficult problem of pilot fatigue. ## FORMER PASTOR OF CIRCLEVILLE CHURCH IS DEAD

Edwin K. Johnson, of near Austin, Ross county, former pastor of the Circleville Methodist Church, died Friday at 8:15 p. m.

Mr. Johnson suffered a heart attack a week ago. He resided on a farm. Surviving are his widow, Ella McKee Johnson, and two children, Dorothy, teacher at Defiance, and Kay of Chicago.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at 2:30 p. m. in the home with the Rev. George Parkin of Washington C. H., officiating. Burial will be in Grandview Cemetery in Chillicothe.

Mr. Johnson left Circleville 12 years ago. He was pastor of the Circleville church for two years.

In recent years Mr. Johnson had been engaged in government bureau work and farming.

ZANESVILLE MAN SPEAKS AT DISTRICT EAGLE MEET

William P. Wetherall of Zanesville, grand worthy deputy of the Ohio district Fraternal Order of Eagles, will speak Sunday at a district initiation to be held in the Circleville lodge home.

Candidates from London, Springfield, Columbus, Greenfield, Washington C. H. and Circleville will be initiated. The Columbus lodge will conduct the work.

The Circleville aerie, headed by Ralph Friley, will have 25 candidates.

MAN WHO URGED KAISER TO KEEP FROM WAR DIES

GENEVA, Oct. 7.—A refugee from his native land because of opposition to the Hitler regime, Count Johann Heinrich Von Bernstorff, 76, last ambassador to the United States from imperial Germany, was dead here today.

Once one of the most brilliant, and later one of the most controversial figures in the pre-World War diplomatic set of Washington, Von Bernstorff died a recluse, shunned by the present leaders of the country he served for many years as an outstanding diplomat.

The aging former diplomat died of heart disease.

Target for the hatred of Americans in the war-impassioned days of 1917, Von Bernstorff died respected by world figures as a liberal who sought to establish a democratic government in Germany after the World War defeat. He was a leading figure in the League of Nations.

Sad and disillusioned by the rise of Hitler, Von Bernstorff fled Germany in 1933 and has lived here since. For the last five years he has lived alone but for his American-born wife, the former Jeanne Luckmeyer, of New York. He spent his last days writing his memoirs.

To his death, Von Bernstorff contended that had the former Kaiser Wilhelm followed his advice the United States never would have entered the World War. He said that resort to unrestricted submarine warfare automatically would bring America into the war.

Von Bernstorff served as ambassador in Washington from 1908 until he was handed his passport when the United States declared war in 1917.
